U.S.. Man-In-Space Hopes Get Boost

Rocket Craft Passes Most Severe Test

Three Astronauts To Begin Training For Initial Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —America's man-in-space capsule survived its most severe test Tuesday, a tortuous 12,850-mile-an-hour rocket ride. Officials said a man apparently could have lived through the test and quickly named three candidates for a space flight expected within two or three months.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the overwhelming success of the flight bolstered the chances of sending an astronaut on a short rocket ride in the near future and into orbit around the earth late this year.

Authorities emphasized, however, that much testing remains before a human can be launched. The Tuesday developments made it obvious the trials are entering the final stages.

The three chosen to begin training for the first U.S. manned shot are John J. Glenn Jr., 39, a Marine lieutenant colonel from New Concord, Ohio; Virgil E. Grissom, 35, an Air Force captain from Mitchell, Ind., and Alan B. Shepard Jr., 37, a Navy commander from East Derry, N.H.

Overjoyed At Selection

Glenn and Shepard, who witnessed the launching, were overjoyed at their selection.

"At one point in today's flight," Shepard said, "I was asked if I'd rather be on board in the cockpit. I've been giving the same answer for a long time—'you bet.'"

"We've been looking toward this day for a long time," commented Glenn, "and it's an understatement to say that I'm happy. We've tried, however, to play down the 'first' aspects.

"For instance, today's flight and all that it proved was much more important to project Mercury than the name on the first ticket."

Grissom, who monitored the flight from a control station in Bermuda, was not immediately available for comment.

The flight one of them is expected to take will be similar to that which Ham, the space chimp, survived on Jan. 31. Ham rode 156 miles into space and 414 miles down range. His capsule was boosted by a Redstone rocket, smaller than the Atlas used Tuesday.

Capsule Quickly Recovered

Glenn, Grissom and Shepard were selected from among seven astronauts who started intensive training for rocket missions 22 months ago. The other four—Scott Carpenter, Leroy Cooper, Walter Schirra and Donald Slayton—will be eligible for later, perhaps more ambitious, space assignments.

All seven are veteran military test pilots, skilled in wringing out all types of aircraft for the design engineers.

Their spacecraft was wrung out for them when the Atlas hurled it 107 miles high and plunked it on target 1,425 miles down the Atlantic range.

A helicopter fished it from the sea and deposited it on the deck of the recovery ship USS Donner—just 56 minutes after the Atlas blasted off from Cape Canaveral.

House Group Agrees On Idle Pay Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee reached tentative agreement Tuesday on President Kennedy's top priority legislative proposal—additional benefits for the long-time unemployed who have used up their insurance rights.

Aides said final committee action is expected Wednesday on a bill to make almost $1 billion available for extra unemployment payments for up to 13 weeks.

To finance the program, however, the committee is substituting for the Kennedy administration proposal a method preferred by most Republicans and business spokesmen who appeared before the group.

The committee, meeting all day behind closed doors, was understood to have agreed on an increase in the unemployment insurance tax rate, limited to two years. The tax, now 3.1 per cent, would go up to 3.4 or 3.5 per cent, depending on final studies of the amount needed. Kennedy proposed maintaining the present rate, but extending the base on which it is applied from $3,000 to $4,800 per employe.

Although in either case the cost of the emergency extra payments would be met by stepping up a tax paid by employers, business witnesses objected strongly to the permanent increase in the tax base.

The committee was reported also to be considering extending the eligibility for the extra benefits to all unemployed who exhausted their basic rights after June 30, 1960. The original Kennedy proposal would have set the date at Oct. 1, but the administration indicated it would have no objection to the earlier date, which would make an estimated 100,000 more persons eligible.

In the form tentatively agreed on, the unemployment payment extension was estimated to cost about $990 million. This sum would be advanced by the federal government to the states and would be repaid by the states out of the proceeds of the temporary additional tax.

Double Satellite Rocket Launched

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The United States, seeking its second space success of the day, launched a two-stage rocket Tuesday night with a pair of "twin-pack" satellites—one to aid navigation and the other to study a radio communications system for submarines.

The moonlets—a 250 - pounder named Transit III-B and a 54-pound "piggyback" dubbed Lofti — rode from the Cape at 10:45 p.m. EST aboard an 80-foot Thor-Able-star rocket.

The satellites were aimed toward orbits about 500 miles above earth to criss-cross the equator and travel as far north as Cape Canaveral and as far south as Johannesburg, South Africa.

At Least One Survives Jet Bomber Crash

MUNFORDVILLE, Ky. (UPI)— A B47 Air Force jet plane exploded and crashed about seven miles southwest of here Tuesday night in a hilly wooded patch of farm land.

State police from Bowling Green said at least one crew member survived the crash, but he had not been identified at 9 p.m. EST. The plane carried a crew of five, but the other four persons had not been found at 8 p.m.

A number of residents of the area reported a loud explosion in midair and then they said they saw a plane flaming as it fell toward the ground.

The control tower at Godman Field at Fort Knox said it had the report of the crash, 20 to 30 air miles south of the reservation, but did not know the mission of the craft.

Dag Requests More Soldiers For Congo Duty

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold Tuesday called for additional U. N. soldiers to carry out a Security Council peace plan aimed at averting civil war in the Congo.

Hammarskjold's appeal came as secessionist Katanga Province threatened defiance of the 11-nation council's directive that the United Nations use force, if necessary, to prevent military clashes between rival Congolese factions.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe has ordered a general mobilization to oppose any attempt to carry out the U. N. resolution adopted in the early morning hours.

Hammarskjold welcomed the plan—sponsored by the United Arab Republic, Ceylon and Liberia—as giving a stronger and clearer mandate for the much-criticized U. N. Congo operations. The United States backed the resolution. Many diplomats were encouraged by the fact that the Soviet Union withheld a threatened veto and simply abstained.

The Soviets bowed to Asian-African pressure after they found no support for a Soviet demand for the liquidation of the U. N. Congo operation and the dismissal of Hammarskjold as secretary-general.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin insisted that the three-nation resolution gave Hammarskjold no new instructions, but neither the secretary-general nor the Western powers accepted this interpretation.

Hammarskjold, in remarks to the council, spoke of the "new duties that would be required of the United Nations force in the Congo." He expressed belief that countries now contributing contingents — mostly Asians and Africans—would strengthen the U. N. force by further contributions.

President, Top Aides Air Soviet Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy spent more than an hour late Tuesday with his top advisers on relations with the Soviet Union.

At the end of the White House session, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told reporters the conference was "a very useful and helpful meeting."

It was the third formal meeting in which Kennedy has been closeted with Rusk and the U. S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, Llewellyn Thompson, who is in Washington for consultations.

Katanga Boss To Fight U.N. Intervention

Tshombe Orders Mobilization Of All Blacks And Whites

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe Tuesday ordered all able-bodied Katangans mobilized against the U. N. Congo Command's newly won authority to use force to prevent civil war.

Blacks and whites alike of this secessionist province got their orders by radio, as they did last August when Tshombe used the threat of bloodshed to stall the entry of a U. N. vanguard for a week.

In bitter reaction to the Security Council's newest decision, the Negro leader called U. N. soldiers enemies and told a news conference that U. N. experts are men "whose incapacity has been demonstrated." He said he is prepared to close the border.

Some U.N. Troops In Katanga

But he avoided a question whether he would try to disarm U. N. detachments already garrisoned within Katanga, saying: "I have not officially been informed of the council resolution."

The council authorized the U.N. Congo Command, headed by Irish Lt. Gen. Sean MacKeown, to use force if necessary to put down the threat of war among rival Congolese factions.

That command, reduced by the recall of Moroccan and United Arab Republic detachments to about 17,500 effectives, has been under orders to shoot only in self defense.

Tshombe also rejects a part of the resolution calling for withdrawal from the Congo of all Belgian military and political advisers. Such an exodus would strip his administration and army of key men. He said the Belgians will have to stay, even if Belgium orders them home.

Could Muster 200,000 Men

Perhaps 200,000 men in the 20-45 age bracket could be mustered from the copper-rich province's 1,250,000 people, of whom 15,000 are Belgians. But only a few showed up for drill and weapons in the August call-up.

"I mean by mobilization, first of all civil mobilization," Tshombe said Tuesday. "That means everybody has to remain at his post, whatever instructions from a foreign power may be."

Tshombe announced he has invited the heads of all Congolese regimes to a parley in Geneva March 6 and "it is inadmissable for the United Nations to interfere in Congo affairs at the very moment we are trying to find a solution."

Kennedy Talks About Fitness And Education

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy left a conference Tuesday and then dramatically returned to ask some foreign teachers to tell their countrymen something about "one of the oldest republics and one of the youngest peoples"—the United States.

Earlier Kennedy had pledged his administration to a program that will "inspire our country" to concern itself with physical fitness.

"We don't want in the United States a nation of spectators," Kennedy said. "We want a nation of participants in the vigorous life."

Then the President completed his formal speech to a conference on physical fitness of youth, left the building, changed his mind, rushed back, mixed with a group of foreign teachers, climbed back on the podium, and delivered an impromptu talk on education.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff had called the conference. The 100 regular delegates spent the day in group discussions on how to spread the gospel of physical fitness and on the part the government should play in the program.

Guests at the conference included 300 teachers from 67 foreign countries. They were concluding six months in the United States as part of an exchange program.

Crack Train Derailed

36 Persons Injured In Train Derailment

BUFFALO, N. D. (AP)—The Northern Pacific Railroad's crack passenger train—the Mainstreeter—derailed near here late Tuesday, injuring about 40 persons.

No fatalities were reported and observers said none of the injuring 36 persons.

The train, Mainstreeter No. 1, bound for the West Coast from Chicago, was going between 60 and 65 miles an hour. The first four cars of the 13-car train passed a switch about one mile west of here, but the last nine cars went off the tracks.

Seven hurtled through thick mud, and three skidded to a stop on their sides.

There were 51 persons in the coaches, seven in Pullman cars and 16 crewmen aboard the train.

"We bounced around like rubber balls, and I was shaken like a leaf," said Albert L. Nelson, Chicago, a passenger.

"There was a terrific crash," said Esther Ogren, St. Paul, Minn., Nelson's sister. "Then everything began turning around. I found myself on the floor, and the cushion I had been sitting on was on top of me."

The brother and sister, who had adjoining roomettes on the last car, were bruised about the head and legs.

The train ripped up 300 feet of track as it derailed. Cars ramned telegraph poles, ripping down railroad communication wires.

The injured were taken to Valley City and Fargo hospitals. Buffalo is 35 miles west of Fargo.

The train operates between Chicago and Seattle via Minneapolis-St. Paul. It left Chicago Monday night.

TV's Godfrey, Garroway Cited By Foundation

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI)— Broadcasting stars Arthur Godfrey and Dave Garroway were among the top winners in the Freedoms Foundation's 12th annual list of awards announced here Tuesday by Dr. Kenneth D. Wells, foundation president.

Garroway and Godfrey were named winners of special freedom leadership award plaques together with Mr. and Mrs. James McCrorry Willson, Floydad, Texas; David Taylor, Elkins Park, Pa.; Frank Tait, Dayton, Ohio; and Cmdr. Paul A. Terry USN (ret.), San Diego, Calif.

The foundation's top prize, the George Washington Award carrying a prize of $5,000, was not given this year for the first time since this award was established in 1956. The committee said that "no single entry justifies designation of a recipient . . . all entries were too restricted and limited to qualify for the award above all others."

The annual contest in 8 categories distributes medals, plaques and $100,000 in cash to citizens, organizations and schools for their contributions in helping to bring about a greater appreciation and understanding of the American way of life in 1960.

Acts On Tip

Kennedy Applies Brakes To Officers Club Project

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy personally halted construction of a "plush" $200,000 officers club annex in France this week as the result of a tip from an alert taxpayer, the White House announced Tuesday.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, told newsmen the President's action was made public to let the public know the new administration welcomes word of wasteful or unnecessary government spending.

He invited others who may have such information to write the President—in effect putting up a taxpayers' suggestion box on the White House gate.

Salinger said that as the result of a cablegram from an American woman in England, Kennedy had put a stop to plans for construction of a $200,000 addition to an officers' club. The club is at Camp de Loges, U.S. European headquarters near Paris. Salinger said the addition would have only made the club "a little more plush."

He added that Kennedy also had been told that other clubs overseas were planning to buy 140,000 golf balls and a million bottles of German beer.

He said the President had ordered an investigation, but it was believed the purchases already had gone through.

One reason for the administration's concern is that such purchases figure in what Kennedy has termed a dangerous drain on U.S. gold and dollars.

London To Telecast Soviet Shows Live

LONDON (AP)—A British television company announced plans Tuesday for the first live TV hookup between London and Moscow. Shows direct from the Soviet capital will be screened throughout Britain between May 19 and June 4, during the British Trade Fair in Moscow. Besides a tour of the showgrounds, British viewers will see a live performance by the Bolshoi Ballet and a Moscow travelogue.

Names Probe Panel, Asks Walkout End

Goldberg Discloses Lines' Pledge Of No Disciplinary Action

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy appealed Tuesday for an end to the nation's worst airline strike. It has closed three of the biggest passenger lines and all but shut down three others.

The White House plea was made through Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, after Kennedy had set up a three-member commission of university professors to look into the dispute which led flight engineers to quit their jobs.

Goldberg said the airlines had promised him there would be no disciplinary action against the strikers.

"There is no legitimate reason for the men who have walked off their jobs to remain off their jobs," he added.

Closed down completely, their planes grounded by the hundreds, their ticket offices closed, were three of the country's biggest airlines—American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines and Trans World Airlines. Pan American World Airways, National Airlines and Western Airlines also were struck, although they kept token service going.

Western Fires Strikers

At Los Angeles, Western Airlines during the day fired its 130 striking flight engineers and said they will be replaced by pilots as soon as the latter can be trained to handle the duties.

Losses in revenue and salaries to the six airlines topped the $5-million-a-day mark as a result of the five-day wildcat strike of 3,500 flight engineers. The livelihood of an estimated 250,000 persons was affected, including 84,000 employes of the struck airlines, who face indefinite layoffs.

More than 125,000 passengers in New York alone have been displaced by canceled flights since the strike began last Friday. Across the nation, the figure was several times that, with some communities isolated from the air.

Effects of the tieup also were felt in Europe, South America, the Caribbean and Mexico, which are serviced in part by American air carriers.

Goldberg, who failed in an earlier attempt to end the walkout, conferred anew during the day with officials of the striking Flight Engineers International Association. Then he had a long talk with President Kennedy.

Feinsinger Heads Panel

The labor secretary said Kennedy's three-member commission will investigate and make recommendations on a prior federal order blanketing the flight engineers union under a pilots union. The commission's chairman is Prof. Nathan Feinsinger of the University of Wisconsin, and its other members are Prof. Richard Lester of Princeton and Prof. J. Keith Mann of Stanford University.

At issue in the strike, the engineers claimed, was their union, their seniority and their jobs.

The executive branch of the government took over after the judiciary failed. A rash of federal court damage suits across the nation failed to discourage the strikers.

In one such action in Miami, Federal Judge Emett Choate fined Eastern Air Lines flight engineers there $200,000 "or whatever is in the treasury," for defying a return-to-work order of last Saturday. The union indicated it would appeal.

Three-Fold Aim

AFL-CIO To Spur Home Building By Assets Shift

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO announced Tuesday its unions are preparing to spur home construction by shifting $1 billion or more union assets out of stocks and bonds into middle income home mortgages.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said plans under way for a year are now about to be put into effect. The federation has established its own investment department to channel union treasury, pension and welfare funds into government-insured home mortgages.

Meany said the move has a three-fold aim, to put money into a safe and useful field that will draw better interest than government bonds, to bring down home costs, and to encourage construction and thus the entire economy.

He calculated the union mortgage investment would run to $1 billion minimum. He said nobody knows for sure how much unions have available in various funds.

Many funds are jointly administered by employers but Meany said he was confident they, too, would welcome an opportunity to help encourage construction activity, particularly employers in the construction industry.

The impact could be considerable. Martin E. Segal, New York pension fund consultant, estimated to buildings trades unions here last week there are about $50 billion in private pension fund reserves of various types.

Burma Troops Fire On Mob

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Gunfire of Burmese troops Tuesday crushed the biggest anti-American demonstration ever seen in this neutral nation.

Steel-helmeted soldiers opened up with automatic weapons on a mob estimated at 10,000 persons outside the U.S. Embassy.

Bullets seriously injured five of the mob, which had proved too rough for police to handle.

Thirty-five rioters and three policemen were seriously hurt in earlier hand-to-hand fighting.

The demonstrators were protesting the supplying of U.S.-marked arms to Chinese Nationalist guerrillas holed up in the jungle along the Burma-Thailand border.

U.S. officials are investigating to determine how the weapons got to the guerrillas, former soldiers of Chiang Kai-shek. They stayed behind when Chiang's armies moved to Formosa after the Chinese Communists conquered mainland China in 1949.

Kennedy Talks About Fitness And Education

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy left a conference Tuesday and then dramatically returned to ask some foreign teachers to tell their countrymen something about "one of the oldest republics and one of the youngest peoples"—the United States.

Earlier Kennedy had pledged his administration to a program that will "inspire our country" to concern itself with physical fitness.

"We don't want in the United States a nation of spectators," Kennedy said. "We want a nation of participants in the vigorous life."

Then the President completed his formal speech to a conference on physical fitness of youth, left the building, changed his mind, rushed back, mixed with a group of foreign teachers, climbed back on the podium, and delivered an impromptu talk on education.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff had called the conference. The 100 regular delegates spent the day in group discussions on how to spread the gospel of physical fitness and on the part the government should play in the program.

Guests at the conference included 300 teachers from 67 foreign countries. They were concluding six months in the United States as part of an exchange program.

Crack Train Derailed

36 Persons Injured In Train Derailment

BUFFALO, N. D. (AP)—The Northern Pacific Railroad's crack passenger train—the Mainstreeter—derailed near here late Tuesday, injuring about 40 persons.

No fatalities were reported and observers said none of the injuring 36 persons.

The train, Mainstreeter No. 1, bound for the West Coast from Chicago, was going between 60 and 65 miles an hour. The first four cars of the 13-car train passed a switch about one mile west of here, but the last nine cars went off the tracks.

Seven hurtled through thick mud, and three skidded to a stop on their sides.

There were 51 persons in the coaches, seven in Pullman cars and 16 crewmen aboard the train.

"We bounced around like rubber balls, and I was shaken like a leaf," said Albert L. Nelson, Chicago, a passenger.

"There was a terrific crash," said Esther Ogren, St. Paul, Minn., Nelson's sister. "Then everything began turning around. I found myself on the floor, and the cushion I had been sitting on was on top of me."

The brother and sister, who had adjoining roomettes on the last car, were bruised about the head and legs.

The train ripped up 300 feet of track as it derailed. Cars ram ned telegraph poles, ripping down railroad communication wires.

The injured were taken to Valley City and Fargo hospitals. Buffalo is 35 miles west of Fargo.

The train operates between Chicago and Seattle via Minneapolis-St. Paul. It left Chicago Monday night.

TV's Godfrey, Garroway Cited By Foundation

Garroway and Godfrey were named winners of special freedom leadership award plaques together with Mr. and Mrs. James McCrorry Willson, Floydad, Texas; David Taylor, Elkins Park, Pa.; Frank Tait, Dayton, Ohio; and Cmdr. Paul A. Terry USN (ret.), San Diego, Calif.

The foundation's top prize, the George Washington Award carrying a prize of $5,000, was not given this year for the first time since this award was established in 1956. The committee said that "no single entry justifies designation of a recipient . . . all entries were too restricted and limited to qualify for the award above all others."

The annual contest in 8 categories distributes medals, plaques and $100,000 in cash to citizens, organizations and schools for their contributions in helping to bring about a greater appreciation and understanding of the American way of life in 1960.

Names Probe Panel, Asks Walkout End

Goldberg Discloses Lines' Pledge Of No Disciplinary Action

NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy appealed Tuesday for an end to the nation's worst airline strike. It has closed three of the biggest passenger lines and all but shut down three others.

The White House plea was made through Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, after Kennedy had set up a three-member commission of university professors to look into the dispute which led flight engineers to quit their jobs.

Goldberg said the airlines had promised him there would be no disciplinary action against the strikers.

"There is no legitimate reason for the men who have walked off their jobs to remain off their jobs," he added.

Closed down completely, their planes grounded by the hundreds, their ticket offices closed, were three of the country's biggest airlines—American Airlines, Eastern Air Lines and Trans World Airlines. Pan American World Airways, National Airlines and Western Airlines also were struck, although they kept token service going.

Western Fires Strikers

At Los Angeles, Western Airlines during the day fired its 130 striking flight engineers and said they will be replaced by pilots as soon as the latter can be trained to handle the duties.

Losses in revenue and salaries to the six airlines topped the $5-million-a-day mark as a result of the five-day wildcat strike of 3,500 flight engineers. The livelihood of an estimated 250,000 persons was affected, including 84,000 employes of the struck airlines, who face indefinite layoffs.

More than 125,000 passengers in New York alone have been displaced by canceled flights since the strike began last Friday. Across the nation, the figure was several times that, with some communities isolated from the air.

Effects of the tieup also were felt in Europe, South America, the Caribbean and Mexico, which are serviced in part by American air carriers.

Goldberg, who failed in an earlier attempt to end the walkout, conferred anew during the day with officials of the striking Flight Engineers International Association. Then he had a long talk with President Kennedy.

Feinsinger Heads Panel

The labor secretary said Kennedy's three-member commission will investigate and make recommendations on a prior federal order blanketing the flight engineers union under a pilots union. The commission's chairman is Prof. Nathan Feinsinger of the University of Wisconsin, and its other members are Prof. Richard Lester of Princeton and Prof. J. Keith Mann of Stanford University.

At issue in the strike, the engineers claimed, was their union, their seniority and their jobs.

The executive branch of the government took over after the judiciary failed. A rash of federal court damage suits across the nation failed to discourage the strikers.

In one such action in Miami, Federal Judge Emett Choate fined Eastern Air Lines flight engineers there $200,000 "or whatever is in the treasury," for defying a return-to-work order of last Saturday. The union indicated it would appeal.

Burma Troops Fire On Mob

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Gunfire of Burmese troops Tuesday crushed the biggest anti-American demonstration ever seen in this neutral nation.

Steel-helmeted soldiers opened up with automatic weapons on a mob estimated at 10,000 persons outside the U.S. Embassy.

Bullets seriously injured five of the mob, which had proved too rough for police to handle.

Thirty-five rioters and three policemen were seriously hurt in earlier hand-to-hand fighting.

The demonstrators were protesting the supplying of U.S.-marked arms to Chinese Nationalist guerrillas holed up in the jungle along the Burma-Thailand border.

U.S. officials are investigating to determine how the weapons got to the guerrillas, former soldiers of Chiang Kai-shek. They stayed behind when Chiang's armies moved to Formosa after the Chinese Communists conquered mainland China in 1949.

London To Telecast Soviet Shows Live

LONDON (AP)—A British television company announced plans Tuesday for the first live TV hookup between London and Moscow. Shows direct from the Soviet capital will be screened throughout Britain between May 19 and June 4, during the British Trade Fair in Moscow. Besides a tour of the showgrounds, British viewers will see a live performance by the Bolshoi Ballet and a Moscow travelogue.

Acts On Tip

Kennedy Applies Brakes To Officers Club Project

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy personally halted construction of a "plush" $200,000 officers club annex in France this week as the result of a tip from an alert taxpayer, the White House announced Tuesday.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, told newsmen the President's action was made public to let the public know the new administration welcomes word of wasteful or unnecessary government spending.

He invited others who may have such information to write the President—in effect putting up a taxpayers' suggestion box on the White House gate.

Salinger said that as the result of a cablegram from an American woman in England, Kennedy had put a stop to plans for construction of a $200,000 addition to an officers' club. The club is at Camp de Loges, U.S. European headquarters near Paris. Salinger said the addition would have only made the club "a little more plush."

He added that Kennedy also had been told that other clubs overseas were planning to buy 140,000 golf balls and a million bottles of German beer.

He said the President had ordered an investigation, but it was believed the purchases already had gone through.

One reason for the administration's concern is that such purchases figure in what Kennedy has termed a dangerous drain on U.S. gold and dollars.

Three-Fold Aim

AFL-CIO To Spur Home Building By Assets Shift

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The AFL-CIO announced Tuesday its unions are preparing to spur home construction by shifting $1 billion or more union assets out of stocks and bonds into middle income home mortgages.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said plans under way for a year are now about to be put into effect. The federation has established its own investment department to channel union treasury, pension and welfare funds into government-insured home mortgages.

Meany said the move has a three-fold aim, to put money into a safe and useful field that will draw better interest than government bonds, to bring down home costs, and to encourage construction and thus the entire economy.

He calculated the union mortgage investment would run to $1 billion minimum. He said nobody knows for sure how much unions have available in various funds.

Many funds are jointly administered by employers but Meany said he was confident they, too, would welcome an opportunity to help encourage construction activity, particularly employers in the construction industry.

The impact could be considerable. Martin E. Segal, New York pension fund consultant, estimated to buildings trades unions here last week there are about $50 billion in private pension fund reserves of various types.

Jobless Aid Tops Kennedy 'Must' Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy gave congressional leaders a priority list of 16 bills Tuesday with heavy emphasis on helping the unemployed.

The Democratic leaders, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana and House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, promised speedy action.

Topping Kennedy's list, as given out after the weekly White House conference of legislative leaders with the President, were these measures:

Emergency extension of unemployment compensation.

Making children of unemployed parents eligible for aid.

Providing more liberal Social Security benefits and extending coverage.

Setting up a program of federal aid for economically depressed areas.

A dozen more measures on a variety of subjects followed. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger at first said the 16 bills were listed in order of priority but later he said all were priority measures and should be undertaken at the earliest opportunity.

The House Ways and Means Committee late Tuesday reached tentative agreement on an emergency unemployment compensation bill and may act soon on the aid for children measure. Other committee action is under way on the depressed areas aid bill.

The Social Security bill reached Congress from the White House only Monday.

The emergency unemployment compensation bill would provide up to 13 weeks additional benefits.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has estimated that three million more persons will suffer long-term unemployment in the next 13 months.

The House Banking Committee decided to start hearings Friday on the aid for depressed areas bill. A Senate Banking subcommittee is due to wind up its hearings on a similar measure next Tuesday.

The bill would set up a $300-million revolving fund for loans to finance industrial plants and public facilities, $75 million for outright grants for public facilities, and smaller amounts for planning and restraining of workers.

Here are the 12 other bills on Kennedy's 16-point list:

Price support and production controls program for feed grains; raising the $1 minimum wage; federal aid to education; medical care for the aged under Social Security; aid for college education; aid for medical education and research; federal support for expansion of community health facilities:

Extension of the Government Reorganization Act; ratification of U. S. affiliation with the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development; creation of 59 new federal judgeships; establishment of an office of international travel; easing of restrictions on trade with Iron Curtain countries.

Md. House Unit Defers Action On Rights Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A controversial bill to open places of public accommodation in Maryland to Negroes bounced crazily around the House Judiciary Committee Tuesday and wound up a special order of business for next Tuesday — "if we have a meeting that day."

The motion to make the bill a special order was made by Del. Robert Powell Cannon, D-Wicomico, after a raft of other motions, even including one to adjourn, had failed to muster a majority vote.

Cannon's motion passed with nary a nay.

Storm warnings for the accommodations legislation came in the form of a dozen amendments to exempt certain counties from the bill's provisions.

Legislators from Caroline, Kent, Talbot, Somerset, Queen Annes, Cecil, Dorchester, Wicomico, Worcester, Montgomery, Anne Arundel and Carroll asked that their counties be left out of the proposal.

The committee voted 12-12 on two amendments proposed by Del. Francis X. Gallagher, D-Balto 3rd They would have allowed discrimination in the serving of alcoholic beverages and turned administration of the law over to the attorney general and the state's attorneys of the various subdivisions.

The provision to allow discrimination in the serving of alcoholic beverages was designed, Gallagher said, for the "neighborhood tavern." Gallagher said many persons feel that most of the problems created by the bill would arise in places which serve alcohol.

Kennedy Doesn't Plan Depressed Areas Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Tuesday President Kennedy has no plans at the present time to visit depressed areas.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger was asked at a news conference whether Kennedy planned to go to New England to appraise the situation there.

There also have been reports Kennedy hopes to visit West Virginia some time this year.

Salinger answered by saying there is no plan for him to go to either area at this time.

U.S. Would Pull Out Laos Mission If Reds Halt Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has offered to withdraw its 100-odd military technicians from Laos if Russia and her satellites will halt their aid to Communists trying to take over the tiny southeast Asian country.

Informed sources said the United States, in a sharp policy reversal, also would agree to channel its arms aid to the Laotian government through a neutral commission which King Savang Vathana has asked to act as a peace commission for Laos.

The United States hopes its new proposals will lead to a ceasefire in the strife-torn country.

The U.S. plan, apparently approved by President Kennedy, was made conditional on its acceptance by Russia and several other parties. The others include the Laotian government, U.S. Allies and the three member nations of the king's proposed commission—Cambodia, Malaya and Burma.

U.S. Food-For-Peace Team Leaves Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — President Kennedy's food-for-peace mission left Tuesday after surveying food needs in Rio de Janeiro and northeast Brazil.

Director George McGovern left for Washington and presidential special assistant Arthur Schlesinger Jr., for Lima, Peru.

Defense Stepup Plan Is Readied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department is almost ready to hand President Kennedy a defense speedup plan calling for a $2.1 billion increase in former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's military budget.

Now being whipped into final shape by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and his aides, the plan calls for speeding missile production, increasing the number of jet bombers on 15-minute alert and boosting the size of conventional forces for "brushfire" wars.

The number of men in the armed forces probably will be increased above the present strength of 2,493,000.

The proposals, a followup to Kennedy's campaign criticism of U. S. defense policy, would add an estimated $2,092,000,000 to the $41,840,000 military request which Eisenhower sent to Congress for the 12 months starting July 1.

Kennedy's School Plan Disappoints Catholics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The education chairman of the National Catholic Welfare Conference said Tuesday the Kennedy administration's aid-to-education program is a "keen disappointment" to parents of children in nonpublic schools.

"It denies even the least bit of help to five million children excluded simply because their parents exercise their constitutional right by choosing for them education other than that of the state," Bishop Lawrence J. Shehan of Bridgeport, Conn., said in a statement issued here.

"One out of seven children attends nonpublic schools. Their parents spend approximately $5 billion a year for education, this in addition to their willing support of public schools through the payment of taxes. Yet, not one word of commendation, no recognition of the contribution of private elementary and secondary schools to the critical needs of the country. Nothing but a pointed exclusion," he said.

Rees Case To Jury Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—An all-male jury is scheduled to begin its deliberations in the federal kidnap trial of Melvin Davis Rees Jr. late Wednesday afternoon.

U. S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen told the jurors Tuesday he expected to hand them the case between 3 p. m. and 4 p. m., after delivering his formal charge and instructions.

The 32-year-old Hyattsville, Md., Jazz musician, accused of kidnaping a Virginia mother and her daughter for the purpose of killing them, went on trial Jan. 25.

Reese, who was not called to testify in his own defense, pleaded innocent to the government indictment which accused him of abducting Mrs. Mildred Jackson, 27, of Apple Grove, Va., and her daughter, Susan, and carrying them into Maryland.

The bodies of the mother and child were found in a shallow grave near Gambrills, Md., March 22, 1959 — a little more than two months after they disappeared while on a motor trip home from a visit to relatives.

Mrs. Jackson's husband, Carroll V. Jackson Jr., 29, and another daughter, Janet, 1½, disappeared at the same time. They were found slain near Fredericksburg, Va., 18 days before the bodies of the mother and other child were discovered.

Rees has been charged in Virginia with murder in connection with the deaths of Jackson and the youngest child. Maryland has filed murder charges against Rees in connection with the slayings of Mrs. Jackson and Susan.

Testimony in the case was completed Tuesday as government attorneys called five rebuttal witnesses, who were on the stand only briefly for minor additions to the long trial record.

There was little change in farming methods between about 300 B.C. and the 18th century.

Rees Case To Jury Today

BALTIMORE (AP)—An all-male jury is scheduled to begin its deliberations in the federal kidnap trial of Melvin Davis Rees Jr. late Wednesday afternoon.

U. S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen told the jurors Tuesday he expected to hand them the case between 3 p. m. and 4 p. m., after delivering his formal charge and instructions.

The bodies of the mother and child were found in a shallow grave near Gambrills, Md., March 22, 1959 — a little more than two months after they disappeared while on a motor trip home from a visit to relatives.

Mrs. Jackson's husband, Carroll V. Jackson Jr., 29, and another daughter, Janet, 1½, disappeared at the same time. They were found slain near Fredericksburg, Va., 18 days before the bodies of the mother and other child were discovered.

Rees has been charged in Virginia with murder in connection with the deaths of Jackson and the youngest child. Maryland has filed murder charges against Rees in connection with the slayings of Mrs. Jackson and Susan.

State Welfare Agency Head Sounds Warning

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, warned Tuesday his department "may be overwhelmed" next year unless Maryland's economic picture improves.

Waxter told the Senate Finance Committee "people are in abject need throughout the state and are not being met with our programs."

He said certain welfare programs under consideration by the national administration, if enacted, would "be very expensive in Maryland."

The state agency has requested $36.6 million for its operation next year, and Waxter said the department is "still living within its budget" but he added, "We're just beginning to feel the effects of this."

The state welfare agency paid out more money to jobless Marylanders who have exhausted unemployment benefits during February than ever before in the history of the program, Waxter said. The state provides a maximum of $100 to persons in this category for not longer than 30 days.

Waxter said payments for the months of January and February increased by $72,000 over December.

Waxter declined to take a position on a jobless pay bill which has passed the Senate and gone to the House. The bill would tighten restrictions on jobless benefits and increase the weekly payments from $35 to $38.

However, Waxter said "unless the legislature goes along with 13 additional weeks, we're in for terrible times."

An extension of 13 weeks in the eligibility period for receipt of jobless benefits has been suggested by labor. The labor supporters also favor increasing weekly benefits to $45.

Youthful Fugitives Seized In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Henrico County police Tuesday arrested three youths police said escaped from the National Training School in Washington Sunday night.

Police said the trio also had escaped Monday night from the State Police Barracks at Jessup, Md. Police said the three were found asleep in a stolen station wagon, parked in front of a motel near Richmond.

The youths were identified as Edward Scott Stetcher, 17, Baltimore; Jimmy D. Deal, 17, Anderson, S. C., and James Robert Connell, 16.

Forgery, Larceny Convictions Upheld

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Tuesday affirmed the forgery and larceny convictions of Frederick A. Nelson in an unusual case.

Nelson was convicted in Baltimore Criminal Court and sentenced to three years in prison.

The case arose from the mistaken delivery of a number of checks from the Glenn L. Martin Co. to Nelson's business office. The checks were intended for another Nelson company, operating in Baltimore, for the manufacture of packing and shipping containers for Martin.

A total of seven checks amounting to approximately $36,000 were involved in the suit.

Each of the checks was endorsed with the Nelson firm's rubber stamp and deposited in the bank.

Housewife Sees Animal Believed Mountain Lion

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — An animal that may be a mountain lion has been seen in the area of nearby Norbeck.

Henry Hough, a game warden, said a housewife reported she had seen the animal near her home. She also pointed out paw prints which, Hough said, seemed to have been made by a member of the lion family.

There's no cause for alarm, the warden said, because mountain lions aren't like other lions. A mountain lion, he said, is noted for its shyness.

Mr., Mrs. Eddie Wigfield To Mark 58th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Wigfield will observe their 58th wedding anniversary Saturday at their home in Flintstone quietly, without any formal celebration.

The former Miss Nora Oster, daughter of the late Simon and Martha Oster of Beans Cove, became the bride of Mr. Wigfield, son of the late Moses and Jemima Wigfield, Flintstone Creek, Pa., February 25, 1903. Mr. and Mrs. Wigfield are the parents of three children, the late Pearl Wigfield; Mrs. Mary Becker, Flintstone, and Leslie M. Wigfield, Flintstone.

Mr. Wigfield, whose father was a member of a Pennsylvania regiment during the Civil War, is a native of the area. He learned the blacksmith trade in the mines at Thomas and Davis and returned to Flintstone to open a blacksmith shop in 1902. He retired about two years ago. An enthusiastic deer hunter, Mr. Wigfield, who no longer can hunt, enjoys talking about the sport and last year sat in the car while his son hunted. He is an honorary member of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Department.

Mrs. Wigfield is a member of the Flintstone Methodist Church and a former member of its various auxiliaries.

During World War II, the U.S. government considered minting a three-cent piece made of glass in order to relieve the copper shortage.

NOTICE!

He calls on brave, honest folks to outwit 'em with ever-lovin', ever-tender, easy-eatin' JOLLY TIME POP CORN. It's hulless and pops faster 'n any six gun you ever seen on TV. Help the sheriff. Aim fer the best—Jolly Time Pop Corn.

Proper washings won't ruin elasticized undergarments.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Frequent Washings Don't Ruin Foundations

Because of a general misconception, many an otherwise impeccably-fastidious woman fails to start off with fresh foundations. She mistakenly believes that too frequent washings undermine the opposite is true.

Tests made by the Corset and Brassiere Association of America prove that proper laundering actually preserves elasticity and resilience because it eliminates destructive perspiration acids.

That is the reason why any foundation should be laundered after each wearing, and as soon as possible.

The approved method is as follows: Wash in lukewarm water using mild soap flakes. Gently squeeze the suds through the garment. Use a soft, soapy brush on soiled spots. Never scour on a board or rub one section against another. Rinse in at least three clear waters.

To dry, avoid wringing or twisting. Instead, lightly squeeze the garment. Then, roll it in a fresh towel and knead until the excess moisture is expelled. Reshape the garment and hang it over a towel-covered rod. Never hang by the straps, garters or by clothespins.

An iron should never be touched to the elastic section of foundations of any type. Make sure your iron is regulated for the proper heat, depending on the fabric. Press the dampened cups of a brassiere by working from the outer area to the center of the cup with a smooth steady pressure rather than choppy strokes. And don't forget to give the straps a once-over, on both brassieres and all-in-one foundations.

When a break appears in an elastic section, repair its as immediately as you would a break in your stockings. Use a zig-zag stitch. Any removable parts of foundations can be replaced at notion counters.

As a further contribution to your daintiness when you store your freshly-washed garments, add a sachet to each. Roll girdles lengthwise, fold brassieres with straps neatly tucked in and your dresser drawer's orderly appearance will foster both your pride and poise!

Three Charged With Breaking, Enterings

Two Georges Creek area men and a youth have been arrested by Maryland State Police and representatives of the Garrett County sheriff's office in connection with the burglaries and breaking and enterings of cabins in the Turkey Neck section of Deep Creek Lake.

They were identified by police as Robert McKinley Trenum, 25, Franklin; James Eldridge Riggleman, 39, and Charles William Michaels, 16, both of 77 Jackson Street, Lonaconing.

Tfc. Milton G. Hart, State Police investigator, and Sheriff James Frantz said the trio has confessed to breaking into two cabins and have asked for an immediate trial in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Riggleman and Michaels are being confined in the Garrett County Jail at Oakland. Trenum is being held in Allegany County Jail.

They signed a statement stating that they entered the cabins of Donald C. Bealer, Baltimore, and Arthur Nicholson, Pittsburgh, and took a number of household articles.

Sheriff Frantz said four other cabins in the same section have been broken into, but the trio denies being implicated in these.

They are the properties of Dr. Raymond Reeves, Westernport; Dr. Russell A. Nelson, Baltimore; Dr. William R. Fridinger, Cumberland, and Margaret Nonnenberger, Pittsburgh.

He said nothing was missing from Dr. Nelson's camp, but the owners of the others have not been to the properties due to the snow and it cannot be learned how much was taken.

Trenum was one of five men tried in Allegany County Circuit Court last Thursday on a charge of participating in a series of breaking and enterings in the Georges Creek section. He is awaiting sentencing in that case.

Michaels also was charged in connection with the breaking and entries and was given a suspended sentence in Juvenille Court on February 8.

The three said they entered the Nicholson cabin by sliding down the chimney, while they broke a window in the Bealer property.

The Bealer residence was practically stripped. Among the items taken included rugs, towels, silverware, electric drill and power lawn mower.

A few articles have been recovered. The trio did not confess to taking all the items listed, Tfc. Hart said.

The three were taken into custody by Sheriff's deputies and Tfc. Hart and Trooper Bruce Diehl.

Escapes Injury

PLAINFIELD, Conn. (UPI)—Irvin L. Collins, 32, escaped injury early Tuesday when a fast-moving New Haven freight train struck his car, which was parked on the tracks.

Police said Collins left the highway, drove across a field and parked on a grade crossing where he fell asleep. He was charged with driving under the influence of liquor.

Matters Disputed By County Board

There were two matters in dispute at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Commissioner John J. Rowan commented on the issuance of a building permit by the City of Cumberland to the county board for a garage building attached to the libriay annex on Washington Street.

Rowan said the County Library board should have asked for the permit. Commissioner John T. Mason said the county owns the building and the permit must be obtained by owner of any property involved.

Commissioner William A. Wilson entered the discussion to support Rowan's contention that no county funds should be expended for the garage building and the County Library board of trustees should finance the construction.

The second issue in dispute arose when Commissioner Mason asked that Jean Weltman, 438 Goethe Street, be named to a temporary post as clerk in Trial Magistrates Court here. He said Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt had reported the court was handicapped due to a maternity leave of absence of a woman clerk and the hospitalization of another court attache for some weeks to come.

Commissioner Rowan said the procedure should be for a temporary worker to be selected from the Civil Service list. Commissioner Mason retorted that he had been asked to obtain a replacement for the court and he knew of several cases where Rowan had put temporary workers on the job without resort to the Civil Service list. Rowan said that was not the case and asked Mason to name anyone he had selected in that manner. Mason declined to go any further in the matter.

Commissioner William A. Wilson also objected to the selection of anyone unless they were picked from the eligible list. No action was taken on the proposed appointment.

County Board Seeks Charges In Government

Legislation is being asked by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for several changes in the operation of the county government.

One change would be to move the date for setting the tax levy to the first Tuesday in April from the third Tuesday. Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the board, explained that this would allow for adequate time to prepare the bills so that taxpayers would receive them in plenty of time to qualify for the five per cent discount time starting June. 1.

Another change would make September a month in which neither interest nor discount would pertain. The loss from the present charge of one-half of one per cent interest is charged on unpaid tax bills would only amount to $118 annually, according to a check of amounts of interest paid in previous years.

The county board would also like some changes in the procedure for paying county bills. Clark said that the law in this matter has not been followed in many years past and the changes would eliminate the necessity for the county treasurer to sign all checks.

Clark said there is no provision in any of the local public laws which requires the county treasurer to sign checks for payment of county bills.

The county commissioners also ask that the amended legislation would allow the use of fascimile signatures, which are recorded, in case any of the officials who sign checks are ill or out of the county.

Board Orders Action On Health Hazard

A woman from Potomac Park appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to report that a man residing next door had emptied his septic tank on her lawn last Friday and again Monday had flushed the device.

She said she reported the matter to the County Health Department, but no action was taken. Commissioner John J. Rowan called the health agency today and instructed that the complaint be checked. He also said he wanted a report on what action was taken in the matter.

Some Offices Closed Today

The Post Office and Allegany County Court House will be closed today — Washington's Birthday, but City Hall and local banks will remain open for business.

The post office windows will accept mail and service will be available for special delivery and to holders of boxes.

Regular collections of mail will be made from the street boxes in the city.

Manager-Form Government Sought For City

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder, who has asked the Mayor and Council to spearhead a move for a new charter looking to a change to the Council-Manager form of government, said today that the people will have the final say in the matter.

The people will decide if they want a new charter, then select the Mayor and Council which would be charged with naming a manager and who would be responsible to them.

Mrs. Roeder is suggesting that council name a committee of three outstanding citizens who would in turn name a committee to study a new charter for presentation to council and the people.

In emphasizing that the people will have the say, Mrs. Roeder said "Let us remind ourselves that the foundation of a good government is an interested, enlightened electorate. Fundamentally, in a democratic nation, there are two things desired of a government: (a) That the government be responsive to the electorate in establishing the broad policies desired; and (b) that the government be efficient in the actual administration of such policy."

Mrs. Roeder said she believes the present commission form of government — established here in 1910 — is outmoded, inadequate and inefficient. Trends of the day are aggravating old conditions and creating new problems. Citizens are demanding more and better government services and at the same time "Our capacity to finance these services from local sources is becoming more restricted."

Adjustments will necessitate administrative leadership of the highest level, she said, adding "In government, besides the best leadership possible, we must have the most efficient form of government."

The present form, because of increase in functions, development of new and varied services, increase in employes and expenditure of large sums of money has become inadequate.

"Managing a city has come to require special and technical qualifications," Mrs. Roeder said, adding that the council-manager form which came into being 53 years ago — is today the most democratic and efficient form of municipal government.

"It is a sensible way to handle municipal housekeeping," she asserted.

The manager, she said, would be charged with the responsibility of buying materials needed and purchasing in larger quantities will save money by getting a better price; he will keep complete records covering items from time of purchase until they have been dispensed. He would be a personnel agent (some of which responsibility is presently in the hands of the city clerk). As a trained administrative, he would be in charge of hiring and firing personnel which would take that phase of government as well as others out of the political field.

Under this plan, Mrs. Roeder continued, council maintains its policy-making power. Members of council are still elected by and are responsible to the people. Council would select the professionally-trained person to be manager and he would be responsible to them for his actions. He could be released by council from his job at any time.

The big reason for its success is its simplicity and so successful has it been, that it has become the most popular plan of government for all U. S. cities of over 10,000 population, Mrs. Roeder said.

On two occasions, the manager plan was defeated here. In 1949, it lost by 49 votes in a special election and in 1952 on the general election ballot by 1,615 votes.

Interest Lacking In Food Program

There seems little interest among needy persons in Allegany County for resumption of the surplus food program.

Only 75 letters have been received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from persons who say they are in need of food.

The commissioners said they will await further action on the part of federal and state officials on the scope of the proposed increase in the amounts and types of food which will be made available.

Another change would make September a month in which neither interest nor discount would pertain. The loss from the present charge of one-half of one per cent interest is charged on unpaid tax bills would only amount to $118 annually, according to a check of amounts of interest paid in previous years.

The county board would also like some changes in the procedure for paying county bills. Clark said that the law in this matter has not been followed in many years past and the changes would eliminate the necessity for the county treasurer to sign all checks.

Clark said there is no provision in any of the local public laws which requires the county treasurer to sign checks for payment of county bills.

The county commissioners also ask that the amended legislation would allow the use of fascimile signatures, which are recorded, in case any of the officials who sign checks are ill or out of the county.

Board Orders Action On Health Hazard

A woman from Potomac Park appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to report that a man residing next door had emptied his septic tank on her lawn last Friday and again Monday had flushed the device.

She said she reported the matter to the County Health Department, but no action was taken. Commissioner John J. Rowan called the health agency today and instructed that the complaint be checked. He also said he wanted a report on what action was taken in the matter.

Some Offices Closed Today

The Post Office and Allegany County Court House will be closed today — Washington's Birthday, but City Hall and local banks will remain open for business.

The post office windows will accept mail and service will be available for special delivery and to holders of boxes.

Regular collections of mail will be made from the street boxes in the city.

Manager-Form Government Sought For City

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder, who has asked the Mayor and Council to spearhead a move for a new charter looking to a change to the Council-Manager form of government, said today that the people will have the final say in the matter.

The people will decide if they want a new charter, then select the Mayor and Council which would be charged with naming a manager and who would be responsible to them.

Mrs. Roeder is suggesting that council name a committee of three outstanding citizens who would in turn name a committee to study a new charter for presentation to council and the people.

In emphasizing that the people will have the say, Mrs. Roeder said "Let us remind ourselves that the foundation of a good government is an interested, enlightened electorate. Fundamentally, in a democratic nation, there are two things desired of a government: (a) That the government be responsive to the electorate in establishing the broad policies desired; and (b) that the government be efficient in the actual administration of such policy."

Mrs. Roeder said she believes the present commission form of government — established here in 1910 — is outmoded, inadequate and inefficient. Trends of the day are aggravating old conditions and creating new problems. Citizens are demanding more and better government services and at the same time "Our capacity to finance these services from local sources is becoming more restricted."

Adjustments will necessitate administrative leadership of the highest level, she said, adding "In government, besides the best leadership possible, we must have the most efficient form of government."

The present form, because of increase in functions, development of new and varied services, increase in employes and expenditure of large sums of money has become inadequate.

"Managing a city has come to require special and technical qualifications," Mrs. Roeder said, adding that the council-manager form which came into being 53 years ago — is today the most democratic and efficient form of municipal government.

"It is a sensible way to handle municipal housekeeping," she asserted.

The manager, she said, would be charged with the responsibility of buying materials needed and purchasing in larger quantities will save money by getting a better price; he will keep complete records covering items from time of purchase until they have been dispensed. He would be a personnel agent (some of which responsibility is presently in the hands of the city clerk). As a trained administrative, he would be in charge of hiring and firing personnel which would take that phase of government as well as others out of the political field.

Under this plan, Mrs. Roeder continued, council maintains its policy-making power. Members of council are still elected by and are responsible to the people. Council would select the professionally-trained person to be manager and he would be responsible to them for his actions. He could be released by council from his job at any time.

The big reason for its success is its simplicity and so successful has it been, that it has become the most popular plan of government for all U. S. cities of over 10,000 population, Mrs. Roeder said.

On two occasions, the manager plan was defeated here. In 1949, it lost by 49 votes in a special election and in 1952 on the general election ballot by 1,615 votes.

Interest Lacking In Food Program

There seems little interest among needy persons in Allegany County for resumption of the surplus food program.

Only 75 letters have been received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from persons who say they are in need of food.

The commissioners said they will await further action on the part of federal and state officials on the scope of the proposed increase in the amounts and types of food which will be made available.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: From the beginning of our marriage I was the aggressor in our love-making. I'm a few years older than my husband. He has assured me it made no difference then and that it doesn't now.

For the past several years I have felt that he should seek me out once in awhile. I suggested this to him about a year ago and he said he'd try. Last September he followed my suggestion but I was tired. He became furious and said "I won't bother you again." He has kept his word.

He is good to me and I am considerate of him, also. Our life is pleasant in every other way, but I miss this part of marriage. Shall I say something to him or shall I let well enough alone?—SILENT

DEAR SILENT: What do you mean "leave WELL enough alone?" This sounds sick — not well. The brother-sister relationship you describe is a mockery. Marriage is more than just living in a house together and sharing meals. Intimate physical contact is one of the pleasures and privileges of married life.

By all means talk to him and get this badly derailed situation back on the track. Since you cast yourself in the role of the aggressor early, don't expect him to switch just like that.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your Code For Gum Chewers was great. I wish you'd draw up something similar for "Dropper-Inners."

The type I'm talking about never bothers to visit the lonely or the convalescent. They always pick the busiest people they know.

It's odd, but the individuals I would really love to see never drop in unexpectedly — just the bores. Will you say something specific on this subject?—"TONSTANT WEADER"

DEAR "WEADER": I've said plenty on this subject and I intend to say more from time to time. It's one of my personal crusades.

It may surprise you to learn that not ALL people feel as we do. Whenever I print a word knocking Dropper-Inners I get a raft of bitter blasts, specially from small towns. They scream "We feel honored when people drop in." I say the "honor" is all theirs.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since we moved to this city my husband has learned that a cousin he hasn't seen in years is a widow here and she'd like us to call on her.

My husband wants to go but I am against it. She's about 38 and we are in our middle 40s. He says she was very attractive in her younger days but he hasn't seen her in 18 years and has no idea what she looks like now.

I say why borrow trouble. The arguments are getting more frequent and more bitter. He agreed to abide by whatever you said if I would write. I agreed also. What's the advice?—STUBBORN CANADIAN

DEAR STUBBORN: The woman is probably a perfectly harmless widow with no ulterior motives. If she had wanted to contact your husband without your knowledge she could have done so.

The battling has given a zing to a situation which ordinarily would have had no special excitement. Grow up and invite the woman to your home.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Budgets Approved By Commissioners

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved three budget requests.

The budget for the Upper Potomac River Commission of $26,454 for the fiscal year sta.ting July 1 was approved as were the $10,875 budget of the County Extension Service and the $7,020 budget of the State Department of Forests and Parks for Allegany County.

Largest budget not yet considered is that of the Board of Education. The school budget will be submitted next Tuesday by Ralph R. Webster superintendent of schools, and the various members of the school board.

There are several budget requests not yet in and James G Stevenson, clerk to the board, was instructed to notify the departments affected to get their budget requests before the board.

County Refuses To Pay Care Bill

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided against payment of approximately $2,000 for the care of two county residents at George Washington University Hospital.

The county had been requested by the State Department of Health to pay 20 per cent of the care of the two persons, a youth and a young woman, who have bulbar polio.

The board feels that this is not the financial responsibility of the county and should be assumed by the state agency. The two patients were transferred to the Washington hospital where long-term rehabilitation treatment is available.

Courts Closed Today

Police and trial magistrate courts will be closed today due to the Washington Birthday holiday.

The Zulus of South Africa believe that every man is accompanied by an ancestral spirit wherever he goes. The spirit takes the form of a snake that travels underground. When the snake dies, the man himself dies.

Young Drivers To Assist Heart Drive

The Cumberland Clockers, a group of local teen-age boys whose purpose is to foster safety among motorists, have joined the crusade for health safety by entering the 1961 Allegany-Garrett County Heart Fund drive.

The Clockers will canvass three areas Sunday in connection with the Heart Sunday solicitation-education campaign. They will canvass a Centre Street section, Coverwood, Little Orleans and Oldtown.

And just as they have distributed courtesy cards with the club's and member's names on them to motorists in the area, they will be distributing educational heart literature and asking for heart fund donations Sunday.

In the past, club members have made it a point to assist drivers having motor trouble, flat tires, etc., along the highways and leaving a courtesy card with the assisted person.

From helping to promote better understanding among teenagers and adults on the highways, the Clockers are volunteering to help educate the public about the threat of heart disease, according to Robert Smith, club president.

FOP To Meet

Fort Cumberland Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Public Safety Building.

County Receives Treasurer's Report

A report was received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday from James W. Bishop, county treasurer, listing the financial position of the county at the end of January.

Bishop listed a bank balance of $275,593.95 as of January 1. Receipts during the month were $158,232.43 and investments were $406,000.

Disbursements during the month were $185,806.44 and cash in local banks on interest bearing deposit totaled $1,100,000.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved three budget requests.

The budget for the Upper Potomac River Commission of $26,454 for the fiscal year sta.ting July 1 was approved as were the $10,875 budget of the County Extension Service and the $7,020 budget of the State Department of Forests and Parks for Allegany County.

Largest budget not yet considered is that of the Board of Education. The school budget will be submitted next Tuesday by Ralph R. Webster superintendent of schools, and the various members of the school board.

There are several budget requests not yet in and James G Stevenson, clerk to the board, was instructed to notify the departments affected to get their budget requests before the board.

County Refuses To Pay Care Bill

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided against payment of approximately $2,000 for the care of two county residents at George Washington University Hospital.

The county had been requested by the State Department of Health to pay 20 per cent of the care of the two persons, a youth and a young woman, who have bulbar polio.

The board feels that this is not the financial responsibility of the county and should be assumed by the state agency. The two patients were transferred to the Washington hospital where long-term rehabilitation treatment is available.

Courts Closed Today

Police and trial magistrate courts will be closed today due to the Washington Birthday holiday.

The Zulus of South Africa believe that every man is accompanied by an ancestral spirit wherever he goes. The spirit takes the form of a snake that travels underground. When the snake dies, the man himself dies.

Young Drivers To Assist Heart Drive

The Cumberland Clockers, a group of local teen-age boys whose purpose is to foster safety among motorists, have joined the crusade for health safety by entering the 1961 Allegany-Garrett County Heart Fund drive.

The Clockers will canvass three areas Sunday in connection with the Heart Sunday solicitation-education campaign. They will canvass a Centre Street section, Cowerwood, Little Orleans and Oldtown.

And just as they have distributed courtesy cards with the club's and member's names on them to motorists in the area, they will be distributing educational heart literature and asking for heart fund donations Sunday.

In the past, club members have made it a point to assist drivers having motor trouble, flat tires, etc., along the highways and leaving a courtesy card with the assisted person.

From helping to promote better understanding among teenagers and adults on the highways, the Clockers are volunteering to help educate the public about the threat of heart disease, according to Robert Smith, club president.

FOP To Meet

Fort Cumberland Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Public Safety Building.

County Receives Treasurer's Report

A report was received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday from James W. Bishop, county treasurer, listing the financial position of the county at the end of January.

Bishop listed a bank balance of $275,593.95 as of January 1. Receipts during the month were $158,232.43 and investments were $406,000.

Disbursements during the month were $185,806.44 and cash in local banks on interest bearing deposit totaled $1,100,000.

Gandhi's Tactics And Race Relations

Howard University's School of Religion, in Washington, D. C., has disclosed that a new graduate-level course in the predominantly Negro school will explore the history and philosophy of non-violent resistance developed by Mohandas K. Gandhi during his campaign for the independence of India. Introduction of the course points up the interest of American Negroes in the Gandhian concept as a principal means of achieving success in their desegregation movements.

The Negro boycott of segregated buses in Montgomery, Ala., the "sit-in" demonstrations at lunch counters, and now the "jail-ins" and the "pray-ins" to dramatize segregation practices—all these have revealed a commitment to non-violent tactics.

Howard University Vice President William Stuart Nelson, who is teaching the new course, visited India three times and knew Gandhi personally. The philosophy of non-violence, as explained by Nelson, demands that the demonstrator press for what he believes is right, without hatred or desire for retribution, doing no violence to the person who is doing him wrong, and that he be prepared to suffer because of his efforts. According to Nelson, the goal of the non-violent method is to "call attention to the wrong and change the point of view of the wrong-doer" rather than force him to submit to the will of the wronged.

One of the dangers in a campaign of non-violent resistance is that it will provoke violence in others. Rev. Martin Luther King has written of this possibility: "If physical death is the price that a man must pay to free his children and his white brethren from a permanent death of the spirit, then nothing could be more redemptive." Such is the nature of non-violence resistance, of which Gandhi once said: "It is much more active than (is) violent resistance. It is direct, ceaseless but three-fourths invisible . . ."

Tax Havens

President Kennedy wants a report by April 1 on tax havens, on whether "undue amounts" of American capital may be flowing to industrialized nations. Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury, is to get the facts together with the object of developing legislation. It is to be hoped that he does not limit his investigations to Treasury officials, as they have not been able to do very much about this subject during the 40 years that it has been a problem.

Any study of tax havens must begin with "hot money." By definition, this is currency which came to its owner illegally and which he dares not disclose. His principal task is to make "hot money" legitimate; otherwise he is stuck with a currency that he cannot use. "Hot money" is actually cash and is moved as cash.

The first big block of "hot money" was Prohibition money—the coin that went to bootleggers, hi-jackers, the importers of forbidden liquor, the bankers who provided the money for this purpose and the gangsters who gave them protection. Nobody knows for sure what this amounts to, but the figure most often used is that the residue is about $2,500,000,000. Most of this money first found its way from various American cities to the Canadian bootlegging centers and from there to Europe where it was legitimatized and put into industry and commerce throughout the world, including the United States. No taxes were ever paid on these earnings.

The second largest block of "hot money" is dope. This has to be financed because the sums involved are enormous. The principal export center is Italy, although considerable dope comes from the Middle East and Red China. It is generally said that Lucky Luciano is the king of this business throughout the world, although he, living in exile, denies this overlordship. All transactions are in cash and therefore no taxes are paid. The United States maintains an inadequately financed agency to meet this situation under the direction of Harry J. Anslinger, who has done more than is to be expected on the slender support he has. This dope money should be taxed but it is not easy to find the owners. However, if a tax of 200 per cent were put on caught heroin or marijuana or opium, it would be very helpful. The peddling or financing of dope should be made a capital offense.

The third largest block of "hot money" is currency obtained by a variety of methods, including under-the-table payments to politicians. Such money is physically taken to places like Switzerland or Panama or Hongkong and is banked there either under numbered or fictitious accounts. The money is then managed from abroad and may never actually be returned to the owner in this country. American shares may be purchased in London or Amsterdam or other cities and sold on a rise, the accretion never being taxed. Dividends would, of course, be taxed. The money is also used for investment in foreign enterprises or in American-owned enterprises abroad. It thus becomes denationalized and pays no taxes to the United States. The sums involved in these operations are not known. In the business world the low estimate is $50,000,000,000.

Actually, the tax law permits an American enterprise to retain its earnings abroad and thus avoid taxation in the United States. The Treasury seeks to correct this by requiring American parent companies to supply information concerning foreign subsidiaries, but this is not the largest factor in the situation. What is needed is information about those Americans who have numbered accounts in Switzerland and other countries and to make such dollars taxable.

There can be no excuse for the lack of knowledge on these subjects except that too many big names are always involved. There is plenty of free discussion and free action on these subjects and nobody seems particularly worried about them or afraid of government action.

All tax havens involve tax evasion. The American subsidiary abroad which makes a loan to the American parent company is avoiding taxes. The solution for this problem is to make tax evasion subject to a triple fine and to require accountants and lawyers who certify financial statements to declare that no tax evasion or tax avoidance is involved. The advice on how to use the gimmick usually comes from lawyers and accountants.

Perspective On Economic Situation Needed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's no harm in talking openly about a "recession" or a "readjustment," but there's a good deal of harm in exaggerations by politicians. They sometimes seek only to blame the opposite party or else to develop an atmosphere that will push a panicky Congress into big spending programs.

What would really be most helpful and constructive would be a discussion that puts the whole economic situation in perspective.

If, for instance, unemployment is to be reduced and held to a 4 per cent level, which is considered normal, it will be necessary to have a net growth of about 1,525,000 new jobs every year from now through 1965. This is based on official forecasts by the Department of Labor on the coming of age of new workers and the number retired each year.

In addition to this, even more jobs—possibly another 2,725,000 per year—will have to be created to take care of the persons who will be displaced by automation and increased productivity per man-hour or greater efficiency.

It is easy enough to bandy about figures on what the percentage of growth in national output should be. This is sometimes facetiously referred to as "growthmanship." But the problem of a needed growth to take care of an expanded population and an increase in consumer requirements is not going to be solved by a mere mathematical formula.

It can be solved in only one of two ways—by a regulated economy that eventually can only mean state Socialism and bring on an imitation Communism, or by an intensified system of private enterprise.

Unfortunately, politics has produced a bad atmosphere for the private-enterprise system. The politician may not admit it, but almost every solution he comes up with implies more and more government controls or more and more government spending. No recession or depression can be cured that way—at least, experience in the last half-century points to failure after failure in that process.

What is desirable is a new emphasis on job creation. The profit system needs to be energized. While laws are necessary to curb improper use of economic power by both management and labor, the truth is that existing laws, no matter how well-intentioned, contribute largely to confusion and actually retard national growth. Clarification of old laws, rather than enactment of new laws, is really needed.

Much, for instance, is made of the way antitrust laws are violated, but it takes an army of lawyers to advise what is or is not lawful. Many mistakes are made and many law violations are not detected. One businessman said privately the other day that, if all the antitrust laws were strictly complied with today, many companies would have to suspend operations to find out what to do, and that, since many would be in doubt, business would be injured to an incalculable extent. Expansion would be discouraged and monopoly increased.

The same thing is true with respect to the impact of the tax laws. They often discourage job creation. The problem of depreciation allowances on taxes is still unsolved because it is handled by politicians instead of economists.

America has been passing through a recession that shows some signs now of having reached bottom. Part of its damage was undoubtedly due to the unusually harsh winter weather, which has adversely affected some industries as well as retail sales and transportation. Some significant indicators now are on the optimistic side. But this should not encourage indifference to the solution of the problem of frequent recessions and readjustments in the national economy. It will do little good merely to cry out for "more national growth." What is needed is a restudy of job creation.

For while the profit motive does provide an incentive to businessmen and investors, it is by no means the only motive for successful operation of modern business. There is a deep-seated desire to succeed in a given enterprise and to expand. Job creation is a natural consequence. Hence, to discourage job creation, as is done repeatedly by unwise legislation and by inaccurate and partisan interpretations of what has been called "the business cycle," is to infect the nation with a chronic ailment—recurring recessions.

Science has produced technological improvements in material things, but it has yet to come forward with satisfactory analyses of just what causes recessions and what really cures them. The profit system needs a stimulus that could create more jobs. This will come only when the operations and potentialities of the private-enterprise system are better understood in Congress and in some academic circles whence comes much of the misguided pressure for a regulated, if not a totalitarian, enocomy.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ANDY JACKSON—Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States and honored as a founder of the Democratic Party, has been restored to a prominent place in the White House.

A portrait of Old Hickory has been re-hung in the Cabinet Room, from which it was ordered removed by President Eisenhower some eight years ago. No one ever asked, and Eisenhower never volunteered why the Jackson portrait was removed.

Another portrait ordered removed by Eisenhower was that of President Woodrow Wilson. In their place, he ordered hung pictures of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. He retained a portrait of Thomas Jefferson, also known as the father of the Democratic Party.

Now, the portrait of Washington is gone—not ordered removed by President John F. Kennedy but returned apparently by the outgoing Eisenhower, to the National Gallery of Art. Kennedy has retained the Lincoln and Jefferson portraits, giving the portrait of Lincoln the place of honor in the room, above the fireplace.

Old Hickory's picture hung in the White House all through the terms of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. Speculation on why Ike had it taken down runs from Jackson's part in the founding of the Democratic Party, through some personal traits that perhaps Ike didn't admire, on down to what may have been a simpler explanation—that Ike, a painter himself, didn't like the picture as a work of art.

Tracking Down Culprits In Allergy Cases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Allegry causes many discomforts. The trick is to find the culprit and eliminate it. Now and then the source of trouble is too close to recognize, as indicated by the following remarks from Mrs. G. H., who writes:

"My nose used to stop up every time I went to bed. I removed the woolen rugs from the bedroom and since then have not had to use nosedrops."

This woman suffered from nasal congestion whenever she remained in the bedroom for any length of time. The offender could have been dust, kapok, feathers, or any other common allergies in the bedroom. She started with wool rugs, which happened to be the right guess.

Success is not always this easy. An Antioch, Ill., woman had severe muscular soreness that failed to respond to pain-killers and physical therapy. She writes, "I finally went to an allergist who discovered I am allergic to milk, eggs, and beef. Staying away from these foods relieved all symptoms."

Her problem is of interest for another reason. Who would suspect allergy as the cause of muscular soreness? Many bizarre symptoms are blamed on allergy and it is up to the allergist to prove it. Tests often reveal that the victim is sensitive to corn, milk, or eggs but this does not mean these items are causing specific symptoms. The answer requires abstinence for a time to determine whether improvement follows.

One problem along this line centers on the neurotic patient. The allergist he consults finds him allergic to this or that. After discarding or stopping the use of certain substances, symptoms disappear. In such instances, is the cure real or so steeped in suggestion it is imaginary? When nervousness is responsible, symptoms usually return even though the individual avoids the offending agents.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on allergy if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Industrial maternity problems.

MALIGNANT CHANGE

S. F. D. M. writes: What do you mean by "pre-cancerous"? I thought you either have the disease or don't have it.

REPLY

Some lesions turn into cancer or undergo cancerous degeneration. Since we cannot determine when the switch is made from benign to malignant, we call the lesion pre-cancerous until it becomes malignant.

SORE SHOULDER

B. B. C. writes: I have had tendonitis of the left shoulder for 3 months. Heat and exercise have not relieved pain and stiffness. Is there anything else I can do?

REPLY

No, but your physician may have some suggestions such as resting the tendon or using one of the adrenal steroids.

BRANDY IN COLIC

J. K. writes: I have read that brandy is good for colic. My 1 month old baby has colic. How much water should I use in the brandy?

REPLY

Consult your physician on this problem. The remedy for colic depends upon the cause and there are safer and more effective medicines than brandy.

OLIVES AND CORN

D. E. writes: My young son loves olives and eats a can at a sitting. What should I do about it?

REPLY

Call him Oliver.

KNEE CYST

R. C. writes: What is the best thing to do for a Baker's cyst that is painful?

REPLY

Have it removed or injected with hydrocortisone. These cysts are located behind the knee. They have no relation to baking but are named after Dr. William M. Baker, who first described them.

HEART AND EDEMA

A. J. V. writes: Are swollen feet a side effect of angina pectoris?

REPLY

Yes, provided the chest pain (angina pectoris) comes from a heart that is failing and producing the dropsical condition in the feet.

COLD AND SPASM

M. V. writes: Are ice cold drinks bad for a spastic bowel?

REPLY

Cold may increase spasm whereas warm drinks tend to relax an irritated colon.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A staid old town recoiled in horror at the proposal that a local radio station be opened just off the principal square. "I'm danged," thundered the town's leading citizen, "if this historic community is going to sell its birthright for a mess of wattage!"

When Shelly Berman opened at the Waldorf he looked serious indeed and muttered, "Tonight I'm like a girl who flirts with the butcher. I'm playing for big steaks."

Mike Connolly started off the new year by reporting, "I slept like a log last night. I must have. I woke up in the fireplace."

"George Jessel," confides George Burns, "showed me how to cut 20 strokes off my golf game. He taught me to cheat."

Soviet Launchings Demonstrate Technological Superiority There

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is news-gathering in South America. In his absence his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—While the missile-gap controversy rages on, the men who track Russian rockets and satellites have reached their own gloomy conclusions.

Their monitors have picked facts out of space that the public is entitled to know. Here are the sobering details about three Soviet launchings:

1. Our trackers have confirmed all Soviet claims about the piggyback rocket now heading for Venus. It was a triumph of precision control and rocket power that the United States won't be able to match for two years. The soaring rocket probably will score a bull's eye on Venus next May. Meanwhile, it is sending back coded messages from outer space on signal from Moscow.

2. One year ago, the Russians looped a missile 7,767 miles into the Pacific. Before the warhead plunged into the ocean, it ejected an instrument package. Retro rockets slowed down this second capsule, then a parachute dropped it gently upon a Pacific swell. A Soviet ship was waiting nearby to fish it out. The feat required split-second timing that left our experts agog.

3. It has now been 16 months since the Russians took their historic pictures of the moon's hidden side. To accomplish this feat, they demonstrated a startling ability to control a rocket in limitless space. Signals from Earth stopped the rocket from spinning and opened two observation windows at the precise moment the rocket swung into a position to photograph the moon's unseen surface.

Soviet Surprise?

Light-seeking devices lined up the cameras and started them rolling for 40 minutes. Then the windows closed, and the rocket resumed spinning. Other equipment on board processed the negatives, then transcribed them into electric signals. These were picked up by Moscow as the rocket arched back within 25,000 miles of the Earth.

A Pentagon report warns tersely that such Soviet achievements could produce a "technological surprise . . . dramatic perhaps as the nuclear bomb.

"On the basis of their new information," the document declares, "this Soviet advantage may be compounded in an ever-increasing technological superiority. It is not at all inconceivable that these new Soviet discoveries could inaugurate radically new developments in sources of power, communications, and destructive weapons. Such a progression would offer the Soviet Union a decisive military superiority over the free world."

This is the reason President Kennedy has ordered a speed-up in space research.

"Super Deluxe" Treatment

Roly-poly Chan Gurney, who sits in judgment upon airlines, and Keith Kahle, who runs Central Airlines, gave conflicting stories the other day to investigators trying to find out what's behind a letter Gurney wrote thanking the airline executive for the "super deluxe reception you gave me a few weeks ago."

Shortly after this "super deluxe" hospitality, Gurney cast the deciding vote inside the Civil Aeronautics Board awarding a multi-million-dollar route to Central Airlines. The decision is now unde. review while investigators determine whether Gurney was improperly influenced.

Gurney and Kahle were cross-examined separately behind closed doors. The key question was whether they had made a private deal at an El Paso, Texas, hotel.

Gurney confessed that he had invited Kahle to his hotel room.

"Mr. Kahle arrived at about the same time the coffee did," Gurney said. "So I poured the two of us a cup of coffee each. Mr. Keith Kahle, being the kind of fellow he is, said: 'Well, I am sure you wonder why I am here. I've been working pretty hard, and Mrs. Kahle is with me, and we are going to have a little fun over in Juarez. But there are a couple of questions I would like to ask you.'

"And I said, 'Well, I expect you want to know about a case that is before the board. Keith, you know better than to try to ask me any questions'. I told him very bluntly, quickly, and to the point. I ruffled his feathers. There was no question about it, and I let him know that I resented being followed to El Paso."

Who's Telling Truth?

But Kahle gave a different version of the hotel conference.

"I took my wife on her birthday out to El Paso for a little wing-ding over in Juarez, and we ran into Senator Gurney in El Paso," Kahle said simply.

"Would you please describe how you happened to see Gurney in El Paso?" asked CAB Investigator W. Archer Royall.

"Frankly, now that I think of it, it was on the elevator," said Kahle.

"I don't know whether I ran into him in the elevator or the lobby or where. It was just a casual meeting."

"Did you talk to Gurney any other place there in the hotel?" asked Royall.

"We just passed the time of day right there," replied the Central Airlines president.

"Did Gurney go to your room, or did you go to his room?" asked the investigator.

"No, unh-unh," Kahle shook his head.

"Would you please just state what your discussion, if any, was with Senator Gurney?"

"Just passed the time of day," shrugged Kahle. "I don't remember."

"Do you remember whether or not you discussed with Gurney on that occasion any matter pertaining to the Kansas-Oklahoma Local Service Case?" asked Royall.

"No," insisted Kahle. "There was no discussion of that, no sir."

John Adams, a CAB staff member who accompanied Gurney to El Paso, gave still a different account to investigators. He was aware that Gurney and Kahle had met privately in the hotel.

"Did Senator Gurney relate to you what his conversation, if any, had been with Kahle?" asked Royall.

"Yes," Adams swore. "I remember it very distinctly. He said to me, 'Do you know what that fellow wanted?' And I said, 'What?' And he said, 'He wanted me to tell him what the decision was going to be in the Kansas-Oklahoma Case'.

"I said, 'What did you tell him?' He said, 'I told him that when I vote on a case, I forget how I voted'."

Whatever the truth may be, White House aides have hinted privately that they would welcome another "super deluxe" letter from Gurney offering his resignation.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

MIAMI, Fla. — He's sunshine. He radiates warmth. This is a big happy man with a smile like a row of refrigerators. He's Jack Gregson; he's 45, and, because he had an accident a few years ago, the world of television has closed its doors. Nobody will see him.

He isn't broke. He won't whine. Cab drivers listen to him and say: "I remember you. You're the guy used to announce the Wednesday night fights for Pabst." The cab driver is right. So are the women who remember him on the "Jack Gregson Show" and "Just Easy." The world of television gets along nicely without him. His grinning courage is what makes him unique.

Gregson's father was an auctioneer. He sold used cars, but he called them "experienced" cars. The family lived in Spokane, Washington. The kid was ambitious. At 14, he was doing a radio show at KGA for high school talent. He went on to KDYL in Salt Lake City and once did a dizzy show called Jitterbug Jamboree With Jivin' Jack.

He flew his own plane as soon as he was old enough, and has piled up 8,000 hours. He did a man-in-the-street show for KFSO in San Francisco and his partner was a skinny kid named Art Linkletter. Once he was fired for permitting a recording of a minister's sermon to get stuck in a groove. The divine kept repeating "For the love of Jesus . . ."

In the war, Jack Gregson ferried C-47s to Australia, which is akin to delivering a canoe with an outboard. When he shed the uniform, he did a radio show on the West Coast, and flew once a week to New York to do a television show for ABC. He was earning $650 a week.

He, too, had a secret ambition. It was to own a home and a farm. In 1951, he was so big, that he bought both. He had $18,000 in the bank — Gregson is no playboy — and he bought a big farm in Connecticut and a neat little house in West Redding. He spent winter vacations at Key Biscayne.

He even played a part in a movie with William Holden and William Bendix. It was called "Submarine." In 1953, he announced the Saturday Night Fights. He also did an ABC morning spot called The Jack Gregson Show. Now he was taking home $1,500 a week and still moving up.

On December 26, 1958, he went to bed happy. Christmas was over and Santa had been good. At 2:30 a. m. he awakened his wife, Jerry. He was weeping. "I can't move," he said. "A pain in my back is killing me." He was more ashamed of the tears than alarmed at the pain.

The new year was only five days away, but it was a bad one. In the first week of 1959, Jack Gregson was in traction. He bounced from Doctors Hospital to Lenox Hill Hospital. He couldn't lift his head; he couldn't move. Doctors injected fluid in his spine; they took X-rays by the score, they consulted gravely.

Two gelatinous disks in the lower region had ruptured. Three vertebrae were rubbing against each other and were shredding a sciatic nerve caught between them. He begged the doctors to hurry. He had shows to do. They said they could not hurry. They were right.

More pain was ahead. Also an operation. The doctors filed the vertebrae smooth. His shows canceled his contracts. Gregson had no job. He swam slowly in a twilight of agony. He lost the farm. He lost the house. He waited for the big executives of television to visit him. No one did.

His wife remained at his side. Robert Neale of Miami phoned the hospital every day. These were the only friends he had. Even the youngsters he had helped to better positions in radio and television had no time for him. When he got out of the hospital, in June 1959, Gregson had a permanent limp.

He sent out word that he wanted a television job in New York. Let them penalize him by starting him low; he didn't care. Ted Baker of Channel Ten in Miami gave him a job, but he quit for a promise from Mutual in New York. When he arrived, the head man said: "Sorry, Jack. That job isn't here." He tried the sales department, but couldn't abide sitting alone at a desk.

A month ago, Jack Gregson went back to New York. The snows were deep. So was the limp. He went to the men whom he had once helped. They sent out word that they were out.

He's a big man He has a big smile. Everyone who sees him says: "How are things, Jack?" He grins and says: "Great. Couldn't be better." He rents a little place at Key Biscayne and plays golf.

It's a strange industry that kills its own young. . .

Gandhi's Tactics And Race Relations

Howard University's School of Religion, in Washington, D. C., has disclosed that a new graduate-level course in the predominantly Negro school will explore the history and philosophy of non-violent resistance developed by Mohandas K. Gandhi during his campaign for the independence of India. Introduction of the course points up the interest of American Negroes in the Gandhian concept as a principal means of achieving success in their desegregation movements.

The Negro boycott of segregated buses in Montgomery, Ala., the "sit-in" demonstrations at lunch counters, and now the "jail-ins" and the "pray-ins" to dramatize segregation practices—all these have revealed a commitment to non-violent tactics.

Howard University Vice President William Stuart Nelson, who is teaching the new course, visited India three times and knew Gandhi personally. The philosophy of non-violence, as explained by Nelson, demands that the demonstrator press for what he believes is right, without hatred or desire for retribution, doing no violence to the person who is doing him wrong, and that he be prepared to suffer because of his efforts. According to Nelson, the goal of the non-violent method is to "call attention to the wrong and change the point of view of the wrong-doer" rather than force him to submit to the will of the wronged.

One of the dangers in a campaign of non-violent resistance is that it will provoke violence in others. Rev. Martin Luther King has written of this possibility: "If physical death is the price that a man must pay to free his children and his white brethren from a permanent death of the spirit, then nothing could be more redemptive." Such is the nature of non-violence resistance, of which Gandhi once said: "It is much more active than (is) violent resistance. It is direct, ceaseless but three-fourths invisible . . ."

Tax Havens

President Kennedy wants a report by April 1 on tax havens, on whether "undue amounts" of American capital may be flowing to industrialized nations. Douglas Dillon, Secretary of the Treasury, is to get the facts together with the object of developing legislation. It is to be hoped that he does not limit his investigations to Treasury officials, as they have not been able to do very much about this subject during the 40 years that it has been a problem.

Any study of tax havens must begin with "hot money." By definition, this is currency which came to its owner illegally and which he dares not disclose. His principal task is to make "hot money" legitimate; otherwise he is stuck with a currency that he cannot use. "Hot money" is actually cash and is moved as cash.

The first big block of "hot money" was Prohibition money—the coin that went to bootleggers, hi-jackers, the importers of forbidden liquor, the bankers who provided the money for this purpose and the gangsters who gave them protection. Nobody knows for sure what this amounts to, but the figure most often used is that the residue is about $2,500,000,000. Most of this money first found its way from various American cities to the Canadian bootlegging centers and from there to Europe where it was legitimatized and put into industry and commerce throughout the world, including the United States. No taxes were ever paid on these earnings.

The second largest block of "hot money" is dope. This has to be financed because the sums involved are enormous. The principal export center is Italy, although considerable dope comes from the Middle East and Red China. It is generally said that Lucky Luciano is the king of this business throughout the world, although he, living in exile, denies this overlordship. All transactions are in cash and therefore no taxes are paid. The United States maintains an inadequately financed agency to meet this situation under the direction of Harry J. Anslinger, who has done more than is to be expected on the slender support he has. This dope money should be taxed but it is not easy to find the owners. However, if a tax of 200 per cent were put on caught heroin or marijuana or opium, it would be very helpful. The peddling or financing of dope should be made a capital offense.

The third largest block of "hot money" is currency obtained by a variety of methods, including under-the-table payments to politicians. Such money is physically taken to places like Switzerland or Panama or Hongkong and is banked there either under numbered or fictitious accounts. The money is then managed from abroad and may never actually be returned to the owner in this country. American shares may be purchased in London or Amsterdam or other cities and sold on a rise, the accretion never being taxed. Dividends would, of course, be taxed. The money is also used for investment in foreign enterprises or in American-owned enterprises abroad. It thus becomes denationalized and pays no taxes to the United States. The sums involved in these operations are not known. In the business world the low estimate is $50,000,000,000.

Actually, the tax law permits an American enterprise to retain its earnings abroad and thus avoid taxation in the United States. The Treasury seeks to correct this by requiring American parent companies to supply information concerning foreign subsidiaries, but this is not the largest factor in the situation. What is needed is information about those Americans who have numbered accounts in Switzerland and other countries and to make such dollars taxable.

There can be no excuse for the lack of knowledge on these subjects except that too many big names are always involved. There is plenty of free discussion and free action on these subjects and nobody seems particularly worried about them or afraid of government action.

All tax havens involve tax evasion. The American subsidiary abroad which makes a loan to the American parent company is avoiding taxes. The solution for this problem is to make tax evasion subject to a triple fine and to require accountants and lawyers who certify financial statements to declare that no tax evasion or tax avoidance is involved. The advice on how to use the gimmick usually comes from lawyers and accountants.

Soviet Launchings Demonstrate Technological Superiority There

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is news-gathering in South America. In his absence his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—While the missile-gap controversy rages on, the men who track Russian rockets and satellites have reached their own gloomy conclusions.

Their monitors have picked facts out of space that the public is entitled to know. Here are the sobering details about three Soviet launchings:

1. Our trackers have confirmed all Soviet claims about the piggyback rocket now heading for Venus. It was a triumph of precision control and rocket power that the United States won't be able to match for two years. The soaring rocket probably will score a bull's eye on Venus next May. Meanwhile, it is sending back coded messages from outer space on signal from Moscow.

2. One year ago, the Russians looped a missile 7,767 miles into the Pacific. Before the warhead plunged into the ocean, it ejected an instrument package. Retro rockets slowed down this second capsule, then a parachute dropped it gently upon a Pacific swell. A Soviet ship was waiting nearby to fish it out. The feat required split-second timing that left our experts agog.

3. It has now been 16 months since the Russians took their historic pictures of the moon's hidden side. To accomplish this feat, they demonstrated a startling ability to control a rocket in limitless space. Signals from Earth stopped the rocket from spinning and opened two observation windows at the precise moment the rocket swung into a position to photograph the moon's unseen surface.

Soviet Surprise?

Light-seeking devices lined up the cameras and started them rolling for 40 minutes. Then the windows closed, and the rocket resumed spinning. Other equipment on board processed the negatives, then transcribed them into electric signals. These were picked up by Moscow as the rocket arched back within 25,000 miles of the Earth.

A Pentagon report warns tersely that such Soviet achievements could produce a "technological surprise . . . dramatic perhaps as the nuclear bomb.

"On the basis of their new information," the document declares, "this Soviet advantage may be compounded in an ever-increasing technological superiority. It is not at all inconceivable that these new Soviet discoveries could inaugurate radically new developments in sources of power, communications, and destructive weapons. Such a progression would offer the Soviet Union a decisive military superiority over the free world."

This is the reason President Kennedy has ordered a speed-up in space research.

"Super Deluxe" Treatment

Roly-poly Chan Gurney, who sits in judgment upon airlines, and Keith Kahle, who runs Central Airlines, gave conflicting stories the other day to investigators trying to find out what's behind a letter Gurney wrote thanking the airline executive for the "super deluxe reception you gave me a few weeks ago."

Shortly after this "super deluxe" hospitality, Gurney cast the deciding vote inside the Civil Aeronautics Board awarding a multi-million-dollar route to Central Airlines. The decision is now unde. review while investigators determine whether Gurney was improperly influenced.

Gurney and Kahle were cross-examined separately behind closed doors. The key question was whether they had made a private deal at an El Paso, Texas, hotel.

Gurney confessed that he had invited Kahle to his hotel room.

"Mr. Kahle arrived at about the same time the coffee did," Gurney said. "So I poured the two of us a cup of coffee each. Mr. Keith Kahle, being the kind of fellow he is, said: 'Well, I am sure you wonder why I am here. I've been working pretty hard, and Mrs. Kahle is with me, and we are going to have a little fun over in Juarez. But there are a couple of questions I would like to ask you.'

"And I said, 'Well, I expect you want to know about a case that is before the board. Keith, you know better than to try to ask me any questions'. I told him very bluntly, quickly, and to the point. I ruffled his feathers. There was no question about it, and I let him know that I resented being followed to El Paso."

Who's Telling Truth?

But Kahle gave a different version of the hotel conference.

"I took my wife on her birthday out to El Paso for a little wing-ding over in Juarez, and we ran into Senator Gurney in El Paso," Kahle said simply.

"Would you please describe how you happened to see Gurney in El Paso?" asked CAB Investigator W. Archer Royall.

"Frankly, now that I think of it, it was on the elevator," said Kahle.

"I don't know whether I ran into him in the elevator or the lobby or where. It was just a casual meeting."

"Did you talk to Gurney any other place there in the hotel?" asked Royall.

"We just passed the time of day right there," replied the Central Airlines president.

"Did Gurney go to your room, or did you go to his room?" asked the investigator.

"No, unh-unh," Kahle shook his head.

"Would you please just state what your discussion, if any, was with Senator Gurney?"

"Just passed the time of day," shrugged Kahle. "I don't remember."

"Do you remember whether or not you discussed with Gurney on that occasion any matter pertaining to the Kansas-Oklahoma Local Service Case?" asked Royall.

"No," insisted Kahle. "There was no discussion of that, no sir."

John Adams, a CAB staff member who accompanied Gurney to El Paso, gave still a different account to investigators. He was aware that Gurney and Kahle had met privately in the hotel.

"Did Senator Gurney relate to you what his conversation, if any, had been with Kahle?" asked Royall.

"Yes," Adams swore. "I remember it very distinctly. He said to me, 'Do you know what that fellow wanted?' And I said, 'What?' And he said, 'He wanted me to tell him what the decision was going to be in the Kansas-Oklahoma Case'.

"I said, 'What did you tell him?' He said, 'I told him that when I vote on a case, I forget how I voted'."

Whatever the truth may be, White House aides have hinted privately that they would welcome another "super deluxe" letter from Gurney offering his resignation.

Perspective On Economic Situation Needed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — There's no harm in talking openly about a "recession" or a "readjustment," but there's a good deal of harm in exaggerations by politicians. They sometimes seek only to blame the opposite party or else to develop an atmosphere that will push a panicky Congress into big spending programs.

What would really be most helpful and constructive would be a discussion that puts the whole economic situation in perspective.

If, for instance, unemployment is to be reduced and held to a 4 per cent level, which is considered normal, it will be necessary to have a net growth of about 1,525,000 new jobs every year from now through 1965. This is based on official forecasts by the Department of Labor on the coming of age of new workers and the number retired each year.

In addition to this, even more jobs—possibly another 2,725,000 per year—will have to be created to take care of the persons who will be displaced by automation and increased productivity per man-hour or greater efficiency.

It is easy enough to bandy about figures on what the percentage of growth in national output should be. This is sometimes facetiously referred to as "growthmanship." But the problem of a needed growth to take care of an expanded population and an increase in consumer requirements is not going to be solved by a mere mathematical formula.

It can be solved in only one of two ways—by a regulated economy that eventually can only mean state Socialism and bring on an imitation Communism, or by an intensified system of private enterprise.

Unfortunately, politics has produced a bad atmosphere for the private-enterprise system. The politician may not admit it, but almost every solution he comes up with implies more and more government controls or more and more government spending. No recession or depression can be cured that way—at least, experience in the last half-century points to failure after failure in that process.

What is desirable is a new emphasis on job creation. The profit system needs to be energized. While laws are necessary to curb improper use of economic power by both management and labor, the truth is that existing laws, no matter how well-intentioned, contribute largely to confusion and actually retard national growth. Clarification of old laws, rather than enactment of new laws, is really needed.

Much, for instance, is made of the way antitrust laws are violated, but it takes an army of lawyers to advise what is or is not lawful. Many mistakes are made and many law violations are not detected. One businessman said privately the other day that, if all the antitrust laws were strictly complied with today, many companies would have to suspend operations to find out what to do, and that, since many would be in doubt, business would be injured to an incalculable extent Expansion would be discouraged and monopoly increased.

The same thing is true with respect to the impact ot the tax laws. They often discourage job creation. The problem of depreciation allowances on taxes is still unsolved because it is handled by politicians instead of economists.

America has been passing through a recession that shows some signs now of having reached bottom. Part of its damage was undoubtedly due to the unusually harsh winter weather, which has adversely affected some industries as well as retail sales and transportation. Some significant indicators now are on the optimistic side. But this should not encourage indifference to the solution of the problem of frequent recessions and readjustments in the national economy. It will do little good merely to cry out for "more national growth." What is needed is a restudy of job creation.

For while the profit motive does provide an incentive to businessmen and investors, it is by no means the only motive for successful operation of modern business. There is a deep-seated desire to succeed in a given enterprise and to expand. Job creation is a natural consequence. Hence, to discourage job creation, as is done repeatedly by unwise legislation and by inaccurate and partisan interpretations of what has been called "the business cycle," is to infect the nation with a chronic ailment—recurring recessions.

Science has produced technological improvements in material things, but it has yet to come forward with satisfactory analyses of just what causes recessions and what really cures them. The profit system needs a stimulus that could create more jobs. This will come only when the operations and potentialities of the private-enterprise system are better understood in Congress and in some academic circles whence comes much of the misguided pressure for a regulated, if not a totalitarian, enocomy.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ANDY JACKSON—Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States and honored as a founder of the Democratic Party, has been restored to a prominent place in the White House.

A portrait of Old Hickory has been re-hung in the Cabinet Room, from which it was ordered removed by President Eisenhower some eight years ago. No one ever asked, and Eisenhower never volunteered why the Jackson portrait was removed.

Another portrait ordered removed by Eisenhower was that of President Woodrow Wilson. In their place, he ordered hung pictures of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. He retained a portrait of Thomas Jefferson, also known as the father of the Democratic Party.

Now, the portrait of Washington is gone—not ordered removed by President John F. Kennedy but returned apparently by the outgoing Eisenhower, to the National Gallery of Art. Kennedy has retained the Lincoln and Jefferson portraits, giving the portrait of Lincoln the place of honor in the room, above the fireplace.

Old Hickory's picture hung in the White House all through the terms of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. Speculation on why Ike had it taken down runs from Jackson's part in the founding of the Democratic Party, through some personal traits that perhaps Ike didn't admire, on down to what may have been a simpler explanation—that Ike, a painter himself, didn't like the picture as a work of art.

Tracking Down Culprits In Allergy Cases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Allegry causes many discomforts. The trick is to find the culprit and eliminate it. Now and then the source of trouble is too close to recognize, as indicated by the following remarks from Mrs. G. H., who writes:

"My nose used to stop up every time I went to bed. I removed the woolen rugs from the bedroom and since then have not had to use nosedrops."

This woman suffered from nasal congestion whenever she remained in the bedroom for any length of time. The offender could have been dust, kapok, feathers, or any other common allergies in the bedroom. She started with wool rugs, which happened to be the right guess.

Success is not always this easy. An Antioch, Ill., woman had severe muscular soreness that failed to respond to pain-killers and physical therapy. She writes, "I finally went to an allergist who discovered I am allergic to milk, eggs, and beef. Staying away from these foods relieved all symptoms."

Her problem is of interest for another reason. Who would suspect allergy as the cause of muscular soreness? Many bizarre symptoms are blamed on allergy and it is up to the allergist to prove it. Tests often reveal that the victim is sensitive to corn, milk, or eggs but this does not mean these items are causing specific symptoms. The answer requires abstinence for a time to determine whether improvement follows.

One problem along this line centers on the neurotic patient. The allergist he consults finds him allergic to this or that. After discarding or stopping the use of certain substances, symptoms disappear. In such instances, is the cure real or so steeped in suggestion it is imaginary? When nervousness is responsible, symptoms usually return even though the individual avoids the offending agents.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on allergy if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: Industrial maternity problems.

MALIGNANT CHANGE

S. F. D. M. writes: What do you mean by "pre-cancerous"? I thought you either have the disease or don't have it.

REPLY

Some lesions turn into cancer or undergo cancerous degeneration. Since we cannot determine when the switch is made from benign to malignant, we call the lesion pre-cancerous until it becomes malignant.

SORE SHOULDER

B. B. C. writes: I have had tendonitis of the left shoulder for 3 months. Heat and exercise have not relieved pain and stiffness. Is there anything else I can do?

REPLY

No, but your physician may have some suggestions such as resting the tendon or using one of the adrenal steroids.

BRANDY IN COLIC

J. K. writes: I have read that brandy is good for colic. My 1 month old baby has colic. How much water should I use in the brandy?

REPLY

Consult your physician on this problem. The remedy for colic depends upon the cause and there are safer and more effective medicines than brandy.

OLIVES AND CORN

D. E. writes: My young son loves olives and eats a can at a sitting. What should I do about it?

REPLY

Call him Oliver.

KNEE CYST

R. C. writes: What is the best thing to do for a Baker's cyst that is painful?

REPLY

Have it removed or injected with hydrocortisone. These cysts are located behind the knee. They have no relation to baking but are named after Dr. William M. Baker, who first described them.

HEART AND EDEMA

A. J. V. writes: Are swollen feet a side effect of angina pectoris?

REPLY

Yes, provided the chest pain (angina pectoris) comes from a heart that is failing and producing the dropsical condition in the feet.

COLD AND SPASM

M. V. writes: Are ice cold drinks bad for a spastic bowel?

REPLY

Cold may increase spasm whereas warm drinks tend to relax an irritated colon.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

MIAMI, Fla. — He's sunshine. He radiates warmth. This is a big happy man with a smile like a row of refrigerators. He's Jack Gregson; he's 45, and, because he had an accident a few years ago, the world of television has closed its doors. Nobody will see him.

He isn't broke. He won't whine. Cab drivers listen to him and say: "I remember you. You're the guy used to announce the Wednesday night fights for Pabst." The cab driver is right. So are the women who remember him on the "Jack Gregson Show" and "Just Easy." The world of television gets along nicely without him. His grinning courage is what makes him unique.

Gregson's father was an auctioneer. He sold used cars, but he called them "experienced" cars. The family lived in Spokane, Washington. The kid was ambitious. At 14, he was doing a radio show at KGA for high school talent. He went on to KDYL in Salt Lake City and once did a dizzy show called Jitterbug Jamboree With Jivin' Jack.

He flew his own plane as soon as he was old enough, and has piled up 8,000 hours. He did a man-in-the-street show for KFSO in San Francisco and his partner was a skinny kid named Art Linkletter. Once he was fired for permitting a recording of a minister's sermon to get stuck in a groove. The divine kept repeating "For the love of Jesus . . ."

In the war, Jack Gregson ferried C-47s to Australia, which is akin to delivering a canoe with an outboard. When he shed the uniform, he did a radio show on the West Coast, and flew once a week to New York to do a television show for ABC. He was earning $650 a week.

He, too, had a secret ambition. It was to own a home and a farm. In 1951, he was so big, that he bought both. He had $18,000 in the bank — Gregson is no playboy — and he bought a big farm in Connecticut and a neat little house in West Redding. He spent winter vacations at Key Biscayne.

More pain was ahead. Also an operation. The doctors filed the vertebrae smooth. His shows canceled his contracts. Gregson had no job. He swam slowly in a twilight of agony. He lost the farm. He lost the house. He waited for the big executives of television to visit him. No one did.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A staid old town recoiled in horror at the proposal that a local radio station be opened just off the principal square. "I'm danged," thundered the town's leading citizen, "if this historic community is going to sell its birthright for a mess of wattage!"

When Shelly Berman opened at the Waldorf he looked serious indeed and muttered, "Tonight I'm like a girl who flirts with the butcher. I'm playing for big steaks."

Mike Connolly started off the new year by reporting, "I slept like a log last night. I must have. I woke up in the fireplace."

"George Jessel," confides George Burns, "showed me how to cut 20 strokes off my golf game. He taught me to cheat."

Legislature Will Ignore Legal Ruling

No Change Seen In West Virginia

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—There apparently will be no change as far as the Legislature is concerned in its 60-year-old policy of giving every West Virginia county at least one representative in the House of Delegates.

Legislative leaders indicated Tuesday they would ignore an opinion Monday by Atty. Gen. Donald Robertson which held the practice was unconstitutional because some counties don't have sufficient population—13 of them, in fact, as of now.

"For my part," House Speaker Julius Singleton said, "I'm for letting the State Supreme Court decide the constitutional question and then taking up the matter."

Robertson's opinion, based on constitutional provisions for apportioning the 100 seats in the House, said so-called "delegate districts" should be set up to include those counties which could not qualify population-wise for a delegate.

The House has withheld action for two days on a bill which would make only six changes in its present apportionment. It would give two more delegates to Kanawha County, and one each to Hancock and Wood Counties, while taking two from McDowell and one each from Logan and Fayette because of population changes.

One sponsor of the measure, Del. Callie Tsapis, D-Hancock, expressed the belief that if the bill were passed, the Supreme Court would not rule the long practice invalid.

Changed Mind

"A 60-year-old precedent has been set and during that time there has been no objection to the policy of giving every county at least one delegate," she said. "I'm for passing the bill and doing it right away."

Singleton said his first inclination after reading the Robertson opinion was to forget the pending legislation and have the redistricting committee start work anew on the delegate district plan.

"After thinking about it, though, I feel the court should decide whether or not the legislative process in the past 60 years, of discarding delegate districts, is unconstitutional," he said. "I would favor passage of the bill now before us and letting the chips fall where they may."

Del. Joseph R. Gilmore, D-Tucker, from one of the 13 counties which would stand to lose a delegate if the system were changed, said he was not sure what he should do. "It's a tough decision to make in view of the opinion."

Del. William McCoy, D-Pendleton, another of those affected, avered on the issue but felt he probably would vote for the bill and the present system. "I think maybe we ought to prepare a Constitutional Amendment now that would remove the restrictions which the opinion referred to in the Constitution," he added.

Sees Court Test

Del. Richard Parsons, D-McDowell, who first raised the constitutional question in regard to the bill, would like to see the bill defeated, but he also believes there is little chance of this.

He indicated if it passed there would be instituted almost immediately legal procedings to determine its validity.

Singleton said if the Supreme Court rules the apportionment unconstitutional "the 1962 session can be used to enact the proper legislation in advance of the 1962 elections." He said he did not think a special session would be necessary to revise the method.

The current Legislature is faced not only with lining up the House members, but also that of the Senate and the state's congressional districts. In the latter instance, it will have to reduce from six to five the number of districts.

There has been no move on the part of the Senate Redistricting Committee to change the Senate method and apparently there will be none.

Legislature Will Ignore Legal Ruling

No Change Seen In West Virginia

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—There apparently will be no change as far as the Legislature is concerned in its 60-year-old policy of giving every West Virginia county at least one representative in the House of Delegates.

Legislative leaders indicated Tuesday they would ignore an opinion Monday by Atty. Gen. Donald Robertson which held the practice was unconstitutional because some counties don't have sufficient population—13 of them, in fact, as of now.

"For my part," House Speaker Julius Singleton said, "I'm for letting the State Supreme Court decide the constitutional question and then taking up the matter."

Robertson's opinion, based on constitutional provisions for apportioning the 100 seats in the House, said so-called "delegate districts" should be set up to include those counties which could not qualify population-wise for a delegate.

The House has withheld action for two days on a bill which would make only six changes in its present apportionment. It would give two more delegates to Kanawha County, and one each to Hancock and Wood Counties, while taking two from McDowell and one each from Logan and Fayette because of population changes.

One sponsor of the measure, Del. Callie Tsapis, D-Hancock, expressed the belief that if the bill were passed, the Supreme Court would not rule the long practice invalid.

Changed Mind

"A 60-year-old precedent has been set and during that time there has been no objection to the policy of giving every county at least one delegate," she said. "I'm for passing the bill and doing it right away."

Singleton said his first inclination after reading the Robertson opinion was to forget the pending legislation and have the redistricting committee start work anew on the delegate district plan.

"After thinking about it, though, I feel the court should decide whether or not the legislative process in the past 60 years, of discarding delegate districts, is unconstitutional," he said. "I would favor passage of the bill now before us and letting the chips fall where they may."

Del. Joseph R. Gilmore, D-Tucker, from one of the 13 counties which would stand to lose a delegate if the system were changed, said he was not sure what he should do. "It's a tough decision to make in view of the opinion."

Del. William McCoy, D-Pendleton, another of those affected, avered on the issue but felt he probably would vote for the bill and the present system. "I think maybe we ought to prepare a Constitutional Amendment now that would remove the restrictions which the opinion referred to in the Constitution," he added.

Sees Court Test

Del. Richard Parsons, D-McDowell, who first raised the constitutional question in regard to the bill, would like to see the bill defeated, but he also believes there is little chance of this.

He indicated if it passed there would be instituted almost immediately legal procedings to determine its validity.

Singleton said if the Supreme Court rules the apportionment unconstitutional "the 1962 session can be used to enact the proper legislation in advance of the 1962 elections." He said he did not think a special session would be necessary to revise the method.

The current Legislature is faced not only with lining up the House members, but also that of the Senate and the state's congressional districts. In the latter instance, it will have to reduce from six to five the number of districts.

There has been no move on the part of the Senate Redistricting Committee to change the Senate method and apparently there will be none.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
4 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♦

An imaginary fear induced East to make an unsound play that proved very costly to the defense in today's hand.

North's raise to four no trump today has, of course, no relationship to the Blackwood convention. He has 19 high card points and South's two no trump response shows from 13-15 points. If South's bid was made on maximum values, he is invited to go on to six no trump. South, having a bare 13 points, declined the invitation.

West opened the ten of diamonds, covered by the dummy's jack, and East's queen which was permitted to hold the trick. The suit was continued, and declarer won with the ace. The clubs were then tested by leading low to the queen and on the return East chose to split his honors, as the ten forced South's king and West showed out. The effect of this overcautious play by East did not at the time become apparent, but it was soon to make itself felt.

Disappointed in the club suit, declarer chose to resort to the finesse of the spade jack, for his 10th trick, but this failed. East got out with a diamond, and declarer's one remaining hope for trick number 10 was to protect an endplay against East, which could be brought about if East held both outstanding heart honors.

Accordingly, declarer cashed the third spade. South then played three rounds of hearts and East was in. He was compelled to lead from the J-4 of clubs into dummy's A-8.

When East was taken to task by partner for playing the ten of clubs at the second lead of that suit, he pointed out that, had he failed to split, South could have played the nine and won the trick. That South could have played the nine there is no doubt, but the question at issue is, "would he have?" And we submit that, without transparent cards, declarer could not within reason have made that play in the absence of a furtive glance.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
4 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♦

An imaginary fear induced East to make an unsound play that proved very costly to the defense in today's hand.

North's raise to four no trump today has, of course, no relationship to the Blackwood convention. He has 19 high card points and South's two no trump response shows from 13-15 points. If South's bid was made on maximum values, he is invited to go on to six no trump. South, having a bare 13 points, declined the invitation.

West opened the ten of diamonds, covered by the dummy's jack, and East's queen which was permitted to hold the trick. The suit was continued, and declarer won with the ace. The clubs were then tested by leading low to the queen and on the return East chose to split his honors, as the ten forced South's king and West showed out. The effect of this overcautious play by East did not at the time become apparent, but it was soon to make itself felt.

Disappointed in the club suit, declarer chose to resort to the finesse of the spade jack, for his 10th trick, but this failed. East got out with a diamond, and declarer's one remaining hope for trick number 10 was to protect an endplay against East, which could be brought about if East held both outstanding heart honors.

Accordingly, declarer cashed the third spade. South then played three rounds of hearts and East was in. He was compelled to lead from the J-4 of clubs into dummy's A-8.

When East was taken to task by partner for playing the ten of clubs at the second lead of that suit, he pointed out that, had he failed to split, South could have played the nine and won the trick. That South could have played the nine there is no doubt, but the question at issue is, "would he have?" And we submit that, without transparent cards, declarer could not within reason have made that play in the absence of a furtive glance.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — The Yale football team that went through the 1960 season without a defeat was made up largely of players who "led" Yale to a 2-7 record as 1958 sophomores.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—When a biography of Rosalind Russell is written, there's no doubt that "Auntie Mame" will be headlined as her greatest performance. That's why Jack Warner had her in mind when he bought "Love and Mrs. Sergeant," a new story by Patrick Dennis, author of "Auntie Mame."

Dennis has many nom de plumes. One is Virginia Rowans, and he wrote "Love and Mrs. Mrs. Sergeant" under this name. He's remained a very close friend of Roz and Freddie Brisson, and Freddie brought Dennis to see me after "Auntie Mame" was such a success.

Meanwhile, Roz is checking in at the Warner lot for "Majority of One."

"Mutiny on the Bounty" has four more weeks of shooting in Hollywood and then eight more weeks in Tahiti, Aaron Rosenberg tells me. He said of all the pictures he's ever produced or been a part of, this is the most difficult.

"But there never was any thought of my leaving MGM and walking out on the job," he said. "Naturally Star Carol Reed and I have had some difference of opinions—that's bound to happen on any picture. I have two to make for MGM. My next is 'The Voice at the Back Door'."

I am told from another source that what made it particularly difficult for the motion picture company in Tahiti is that they put everybody on the island to work and upped salaries three or four times, which made the natives very dissatisfied with their normal life.

Brigitte Bardot as "Mata Hari"—now there's a parlay for you. The femme fatale who became the world's most famous female spy during World War I was a brunette with slinky lines, nothing like BB's blonde type with the fulsome curves. But both ladies share the quality of making mincemeat of men's hearts—so on this score Bardot qualifies with plenty to spare.

Edgar Ulmer flew from Rome to Paris over the weekend to work out a deal with his friend Roger Vadim to cinch Brigitte for "Mata." Ulmer's original screenplay is said to be a honey, and these days Brigitte is listening more to the advice of Vadim, her one-time husband, than to anyore else.

"The Hoodlum Priest" brings two young film makers into the bright limelight of fame as producers. Don Murray and Walter Wood, who made it for very little money, have a real "sleeper," and I'm sure it won't be their last moition picture. I talked with Don when he had this inspired idea and I met Father Charles Dismas Clark, a Jesuit priest of St. Louis, whose life Don plays in this drama of unhappy youths who are without hope after they commit a crime.

In a way, it's a plea against capital punishment since Father Clark says that no man who is executed has a chance for reformation. One of the most moving and powerful scenes I have ever seen is when the doomed boy goes to the gas chamber and the priest goes right with him. To the very end the priest talks about St. Dismas, the good thief who died on the cross with Christ.

Keir Dullea, who plays this youth, gives an unforgettable performance. Don is superb as Father Clark. All the rest of the cast are practically newcomers. The only performance I thought was bad was that of Logan Ramsey and that could be because he plays a newspaperman who persecutes Father Clark.

Practically set for Arlene Dahl to bring the Theatre Guild play "Roman Candle" to the Huntington Hartford Theatre. It all depends, Arlene said, on whether all subscription plays have already been booked.

She was a great hit in Palm Beach in "Roman Candle," although it only ran for a very short time on Broadway. Sidney Sheldon, the playwright, has rewritten it, Arlene tells me, and it's much better. Randy Hale has agreed to direct, and she will also take it to San Francisco.

"It's a light comedy and the Mirisch Brothers are going to make a motion picture of it," she said, "and I'm keeping my fingers crossed."

Jackie Gleason, the only actor to turn a flop TV show into a hit by panning himself, is now being paged by Al Zugsmith for a movie. Al would like him to co-star with David Cory, the amazing child actor in "Dondi," in "The Carnival Kid."

So far Al hasn't had a "yes" or "no" from Jackie, but since my friend Mr. G. has always wanted to play a clown, he just may accept.

LaSalle Tops Fort Hill, 79-58, Stays In Title Race

Long Tallies 37 Points In City Victory

Sprained Ankle Fails To Hinder Explorer Star

Mike Long, who only Sunday injured his ankle on the outdoor court where he learned the game of basketball he plays so well, turned in what was no doubt the finest performance of his high school career last night in leading LaSalle's classy Explorers to a 79-58 victory over Fort Hill before a "standing room only" crowd at the Sentinel's gymnasium.

It was doubtful whether Long, a polished ballplayer though only a junior, would be able to help the Explorers much in last night's important intra-city battle, where a victory for LaSalle was an absolute must for them to stay in the running for at least a share of the championship. On Sunday he had sprained his ankle while working out on the court at Johnson Heights School.

All Mike did while playing on his heavily taped right ankle, which he admittedly favored, was to fire in 16 field goals in only 23 attempts and lead an Explorer offensive machine which maneuvered with the precision of professionals.

Long Nears Record

Mike's 37-point total (he converted five of six free throws in addition to his bombardment from the floor) was his highest single game output in a three - year career, although he has surpassed the 30 mark a number of times. He now has scored 514 points in 22 games this season and needs only seven to break the city record of 520 set last year by LaSalle's Mickey Scaletta.

Long should shatter Scaletta's standard Friday night when the Explorers, who are now 19-3 for the season and 2-1 in city competition, play host to Allegany in a battle to decide the intra-city championship. The Campers (3-0) won the opener in a 57-55 thriller at Campobello.

Once the Explorers of Coach George Geatz started rolling after a so-so first period, the Sentinels simply were not capable of stopping them. Long's individual performance notwithstanding, the victory was the result of a terrific team effort.

Move With Precision

Coach Geatz's teams have always been noted for their ability to move the ball and last night the small but talented Explorers put on a show that had even the most impartial fan marvelling at them.

Fort Hill led throughout much of the first period, but Long drove for a layup with 17 seconds to go that snapped a 13-13 tie and gave the visitors a lead they never lost. The score was tied four times in the opening quarter—at two, nine, 11 and 13.

With only a minute and 14 seconds gone in the second period, Glen Shipway, Fort Hill's 6'3" rebound artist, fouled out. Shipway had plucked off five rebounds and scored three points in the tightly contested first period.

The victory gave Martinsburg the CVAL title with a 7-0 record.

Campers Sweep Altoona 78-65 For 14th Win

Register Fifth Triumph In Row

Allegany High's Class A and WMI League champions, registered their fifth consecutive victory last night, turning back Altoona Catholic High's Marauders, 78-65, at Campobello to sweep the season's series with the visitors.

The triumph was the 14th in 20 games this year for Coach Chet Payne's Campers who defeated Altoona Catholic, 54-49, in their initial meeting at Altoona, January 4.

The Campers hustled to a quick 10-1 lead in the first quarter only to see the Marauders bounce back to take a short-lived 14-13 edge just before the first quarter ended. Wayne Shook, who connected for 9 of 10 foul shots, hit a free throw to knot the score at 14-all as the period closed.

The Campers then hit for 25 points in a torrid second period to put the game out of reach, leading Altoona, 39-23, at halftime. Mervin Pope dumped in four goals, Jerry Pentoney hit on three fielders and Gary Mulligan added seven points to pace the Alco assualt in the second stanza.

With the score 70-48 midway in th fourth period, the Campers inserted their subs and Altoona was able to cut the margin before the final buzzer.

Pope once again was Allegany's leading scorer with 25 points on 10 goals and 5-7 at the free throw stripe. Mulligan hit for 12 points, Shook for 11 and Bob Gaffney for 10 in the well-balanced Allegany attack.

Altoona Catholic outscored the Campers from the field, 28-25, but the Paynemen converted 28 of 38 free throws to enhance their victory. The lineups:

Florida Crack-Up Fatal To Haberling

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Harold F. Haberling, a veteran stock car driver from Phoenix, Ariz., was killed Tuesday when he lost control of his speeding vehicle and it rolled over several times during a practice run at Daytona International Speedway.

The exact cause of the accident was not determined, speedway officials said.

Witnesses said the crack-up occurred just after Haberling, driving a modified 1955 Chevrolet, entered the high-banked east turn on the 2½-mile asphalt speedway, considered one of the fastest courses in the world.

The car, traveling at an undetermined speed, veered down the 31-degree banked course then back up again before rolling over and coming to stop at the edge of the grassy enclosure.

Haberling, 33-year-old father of three daughters, was killed instantly, officials said.

Dawn Fraser Wins Over Ilsa Konrads

BRISBANE (AP)—Dawn Fraser, the Olympic titleholder, beat Ilsa Konrads Tuesday night in the women's 100-meter freestyle event of the Australian Swimming Championships.

Miss Fraser's winning time of 1 minute, 1 seconds was excellent but a personal disappointment since she had hoped to crack the one-minute barrier. Miss Fraser's world record is 1:00.2.

Miss Konrads finished second in 1:05.2, followed by Helen Bartier, 1:05.8.

Potomac State Is Winner Of Tri-State Loop Crown

Catamounts Repeat When Montgomery Is Beaten Twice

Potomac State College of Keyser is the regular season basketball champion of the 12-school Tri-State Junior College Conference for the second straight year, Coach Dann "Horse" Lough announced last night.

Montgomery Junior College, of Takoma Park, Md., was leading the circuit with a 13-0 record a week ago but suffered losses at the hands of Prince Georges, of Suitland, and Baltimore (94-51) in recent days and dropped into third place.

Potomac State took over the lead with a 9-1 record and Prince Georges finished in the runner-up spot with 15-2.

The Catamounts won the championship last season with a 10-0 record.

Potomac State now owns two legs on the conference trophy which must be won three times by the same school to be retired.

John Allen, of Fayetteville, W. Va., captained this season's championship quint.

Hyndman Nips Indians, 59-57, On Arnold's Goal

Jim Arnold connected on a 10-foot jump shot which was in the air at the final buzzer to give Hyndman High's Hornets a come-from-behind 59-57 triumph over a tired Mt. Savage High quintet on the Indians' court last night.

The contest was the fourth in five days for Coach John Thomas' Mt. Savage tossers and the strain told as the Indians blew a 20-point halftime lead to lose their fifth straight game and 13th of the campaign.

Vohn Lehman and Arnold paced Hyndman to its seventh win and a sweep with Mt. Savage by bagging 22 and 16 points respectively. High for the Indians who had led all the way until the last second was Bill Adams with 16 points. Bob Robertson chipped in with 15 and Ralph Wilson contributed 14 for the luckless Indians.

CCC Golfers Hold Annual Dinner Today

Champs Of 1960 Will Be Honored

Winners of four major championships and flight victors in the 1960 spring and fall tournaments will be honored at the annual dinner of the Men's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club today at 6:30 p. m.

Seventy-five members will attend the affair at which Clifton Van Roby will act as master of ceremonies.

Joe Wolfe and John Rokisky were the winners of the spring and fall tournaments, respectively, Joseph S. Gratton copped the Peskin Memorial Tournament and Raymond J. Cannon captured the Seniors Tournament last year.

Art Donovan, tackle of the Baltimore Colts, who has been in Cumberland for the past two days, will be unable to attend because he is leaving today for Baltimore to attend a dinner honoring Don Joyce, 225-pound end of the Baltimore Colts, who will join the Minnesota Vikings of the NFL for the 1961 season. Joyce came to Baltimore in 1954 in a trade with the Chicago Cardinals.

The CCC men's golf team wound up the 1960 season with 10-0 record and extended its two-year victory string to 12 matches. Since 1946 the CCC team has won 61 consecutive matches over the home course.

Two CCC team members figured in one of the most unusual matches on record on June 26 when Dr. Frank T. Cawley and Frank McCagh halved every hole of an 18-hole match with Jack Carnell and Bob Lacy, of Maplehurst, as the Cumberland team squeezed out a 34-32 win at Frostburg.

The Giants won the most National League pennants since 1900. A total of 15.

HE BOWED THE KNEE TO GOD ALONE

At Valley Forge, George Washington was often seen on his knees, as depicted in the famous painting, praying for guidance in the dark hours when his forces were all but defeated and Congress questioned the wisdom of continuing.

We well might pause on this anniversary of George Washington's birthday to reflect on his outstanding virtues: reverence, integrity, sagacity, tenacity.

Bail Is Refused To Carbo Group By Federal Judge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In a surprise move, a federal judge Tuesday revoked bail for underworld boxing boss Frankie Carbo and three of his four co-defendants in a conspiracy-extortion trial.

Judge Ernest A. Tolin approved Special Prosecutor Alvin M. Goldstein's request to send the men to jail for the duration of their trial.

Ordered into custody in addition to Carbo were Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Philadelphia fight promoter, and Joe Sica and Louis Tom Dragna, Los Angeles gambling figures.

Truman Gibson Jr. of Chicago, president of National Boxing Enterprises Inc., was permitted to remain at liberty on $5,000 bond.

Fort Ashby, Elk Garden In 2nd Tilt

Class A Tourney Opens At 7; Finals Carded Thursday

Four Mineral County basketball teams are slated to swing into action tonight when the West Virginia Section 13-A gets under way at Potomac State College gymnasium at Keyser.

Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont Lions (10-9) are slated to meet Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks (9-11) in the first semi-final at 7 o'clock while in the nightcap affair Elk Garden (15-4) will oppose the Fort Ashby High Eagles (13-8) at 8:30 o'clock.

Tonight's losers will tangle in the consolation game at 7 Thursday night and the championship contest is slated to get under way at 8:30.

Marker Is Director

J. William Marker, principal of Fort Ashby High School, is director of the two-day tournament. The winner qualifies for the Region 4 tourney at Potomac State College, March 3-4. Victor in the Region 4 tournament plays in one of the four Class A area games for the right to compete in the state championship event at Huntington March 17-18.

There will be 32 sectionals, eight regionals, four areas and a four-team state tournament for Class A schools.

John and Junior Halterman will officiate in the sectional games today and tomorrow at Keyser.

Lions Won In 1960

Piedmont won sectional, regional and area honors last year but lost out in the first round of the state tourney at Morgantown to Paden City, 59-44.

Ridgeley split with Piedmont this season, winning 50-42 and losing 61-46. Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garen quint holds two decisions over Fort Ashby, 77-67 and 63-51.

The Section 16-A tourney opens tonight at Shepherd College where Shepherdstown will play Musselman at 7:30. Two games are billed Thursday and the finals will be held Friday. The winner comes to the Region 4 event next week at Keyser.

To Start Friday

Other sectional tournaments within Region 4 get under way Friday and windup Saturday. Charnley Retains European Title

STRETHAM, England (AP) — Dave Charnley of England retained his European lightweight championship Tuesday night by outpointing French champion Fernand Nollet in a 15-round bout. Charnley weighed 134¼ pounds and Nollet 135.

Charnley turned in a grandstand finish in the last round to clinch the verdict. He battered Nollet with a right hook and followed it up with vicious two-handed punching that had the Frenchman staggering on his heels.

Charnley, No. 1 challenger for American Joe Brown's world title, is scheduled to meet Brown in a title fight in London April 18.

PVC Dinner Date Is Changed From Feb. 27 To Mar. 6

The spring dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Conference will be held Monday, March 6, instead of Monday, February 27, at the Old Homestead Hotel, Burlington, W. Va., at 6:30 p. m., it was announced last night by John R. Shelton secretary of the circuit composed of West Virginia and Maryland high schools.

Change in date was made because three of the conference schools play next week, including the P.V.C. championship game on Tuesday between Beall and LaSalle in Cumberland.

Coaches will ballot for the conference all-star basketball team at the dinner meeting.

Dawn Fraser Wins Over Ilsa Konrads

BRISBANE (AP)—Dawn Fraser, the Olympic titleholder, beat Ilsa Konrads Tuesday night in the women's 100-meter freestyle event of the Australian Swimming Championships.

Miss Fraser's winning time of 1 minute, 1 seconds was excellent but a personal disappointment since she had hoped to crack the one-minute barrier. Miss Fraser's world record is 1:00.2.

Miss Konrads finished second in 1:05.2, followed by Helen Bartier, 1:05.8.

Potomac State Is Winner Of Tri-State Loop Crown

Catamounts Repeat When Montgomery Is Beaten Twice

Potomac State College of Keyser is the regular season basketball champion of the 12-school Tri-State Junior College Conference for the second straight year, Coach Dann "Horse" Lough announced last night.

Montgomery Junior College, of Takoma Park, Md., was leading the circuit with a 13-0 record a week ago but suffered losses at the hands of Prince Georges, of Suitland, and Baltimore (94-51) in recent days and dropped into third place.

Potomac State took over the lead with a 9-1 record and Prince Georges finished in the runner-up spot with 15-2.

The Catamounts won the championship last season with a 10-0 record.

Potomac State now owns two legs on the conference trophy which must be won three times by the same school to be retired.

John Allen, of Fayetteville, W. Va., captained this season's championship quint.

Hyndman Nips Indians, 59-57, On Arnold's Goal

Jim Arnold connected on a 10-foot jump shot which was in the air at the final buzzer to give Hyndman High's Hornets a come-from-behind 59-57 triumph over a tired Mt. Savage High quintet on the Indians' court last night.

The contest was the fourth in five days for Coach John Thomas' Mt. Savage tossers and the strain told as the Indians blew a 20-point halftime lead to lose their fifth straight game and 13th of the campaign.

Vohn Lehman and Arnold paced Hyndman to its seventh win and a sweep with Mt. Savage by bagging 22 and 16 points respectively. High for the Indians who had led all the way until the last second was Bill Adams with 16 points. Bob Robertson chipped in with 15 and Ralph Wilson contributed 14 for the luckless Indians.

CCC Golfers Hold Annual Dinner Today

Champs Of 1960 Will Be Honored

Winners of four major championships and flight victors in the 1960 spring and fall tournaments will be honored at the annual dinner of the Men's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club today at 6:30 p. m.

Seventy-five members will attend the affair at which Clifton Van Roby will act as master of ceremonies.

Joe Wolfe and John Rokisky were the winners of the spring and fall tournaments, respectively, Joseph S. Gratton copped the Peskin Memorial Tournament and Raymond J. Cannon captured the Seniors Tournament last year.

Art Donovan, tackle of the Baltimore Colts, who has been in Cumberland for the past two days, will be unable to attend because he is leaving today for Baltimore to attend a dinner honoring Don Joyce, 225-pound end of the Baltimore Colts, who will join the Minnesota Vikings of the NFL for the 1961 season. Joyce came to Baltimore in 1954 in a trade with the Chicago Cardinals.

The CCC men's golf team wound up the 1960 season with 10-0 record and extended its two-year victory string to 12 matches. Since 1946 the CCC team has won 61 consecutive matches over the home course.

Two CCC team members figured in one of the most unusual matches on record on June 26 when Dr. Frank T. Cawley and Frank McCagh halved every hole of an 18-hole match with Jack Carnell and Bob Lacy, of Maplehurst, as the Cumberland team squeezed out a 34-32 win at Frostburg.

The Giants won the most National League pennants since 1900. A total of 15.

HE BOWED THE KNEE TO GOD ALONE

At Valley Forge, George Washington was often seen on his knees, as depicted in the famous painting, praying for guidance in the dark hours when his forces were all but defeated and Congress questioned the wisdom of continuing.

We well might pause on this anniversary of George Washington's birthday to reflect on his outstanding virtues: reverence, integrity, sagacity, tenacity.

Money-Lending, Building, Defense Stocks Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — There were five stocks that rose for every four that declined on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday but the popular market averages failed to indicate the overall gain.

Activity climbed sharply above the 5 million share level for the sixth time this year.

Money - lending and building stocks once again scored the best gains in response to the administration's anti - recession program while national defense issues were mostly higher on word that a $2.1 billion defense speed-up was in the works.

With the better performers among those issues outside the Dow - Jones industrial average, that indicator again failed to crack its high for the year, falling 1.25 to 652.40. General Electric lost 1⅛, Westinghouse 1¼ and International Nickel 1¾ while Johns-Manville rose 1⅝ and Owens-Illinois 1¼.

The D-J rail and utility averages dipped 0.19 and 0.14, respectively. Volume climbed to 5,070,000 shares from 4,680,000 on Monday.

The market broadened to 1,299 issues traded including 601 advances and 480 declines while 96 stocks touched new highs. Not a single stock broke its low for the second successive day.

Brokers noted that while there was some improvement in the business picture what with steel production up a bit and additional anti-recession proposals in the works, the market's internal condition has been weakened by the drop in short interest to a four-month low. Short interest represents future demand that could cushion a decline or accelerate an advance.

Money-Lending, Building, Defense Stocks Advance

NEW YORK (UPI) — There were five stocks that rose for every four that declined on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday but the popular market averages failed to indicate the overall gain.

Activity climbed sharply above the 5 million share level for the sixth time this year.

Money - lending and building stocks once again scored the best gains in response to the administration's anti - recession program while national defense issues were mostly higher on word that a $2.1 billion defense speed-up was in the works.

With the better performers among those issues outside the Dow - Jones industrial average, that indicator again failed to crack its high for the year, falling 1.25 to 652.40. General Electric lost 1⅛, Westinghouse 1¼ and International Nickel 1¾ while Johns-Manville rose 1⅝ and Owens-Illinois 1¼.

The D-J rail and utility averages dipped 0.19 and 0.14, respectively. Volume climbed to 5,070,000 shares from 4,680,000 on Monday.

The market broadened to 1,299 issues traded including 601 advances and 480 declines while 96 stocks touched new highs. Not a single stock broke its low for the second successive day.

Brokers noted that while there was some improvement in the business picture what with steel production up a bit and additional anti-recession proposals in the works, the market's internal condition has been weakened by the drop in short interest to a four-month low. Short interest represents future demand that could cushion a decline or accelerate an advance.

Employer Tax Hike Opposed By Sen. Malkus

Automatic Increase Effective April 1

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Frederick C. Malkus said Tuesday he will introduce emergency legislation to head off an increase in employer taxes scheduled to take effect April 1 because of a drain on jobless benefits.

Malkus, chairman of the Senate's powerful Judicial Proceedings Committee which has been investigating jobless pay problems, made the announcement on the Senate floor.

It came on the heels of a statement by Robert B. Kimble, director of Maryland's Department of Employment Security, that the benefit fund will dip to a new low of $48 million by March 31 because of continued unemployment.

Rise Automatic

Under an automatic escalator clause in the law, the tax on employers will rise to a new minimum of 3.9 per cent on the first $3,000 of wages paid. Many employers now are paying 1.7 to 1.9 per cent if they have a low turnover of personnel.

Malkus said the tax increase would work an extreme hardship on small businessmen. A garage operator employing five persons and paying $255 in taxes under the present 1.7 per cent rate would have to pay $585 under the mandatory increase.

Kimble said the tax increase would not be necessary were it not for the requirement that it take effect automatically when Maryland's fund dips below 3 per cent of the amount employers paid in wages last year.

He said $20 to $25 million in employer taxes from the first quarter of this year will reach the department in April and eliminate the current emergency in the fund.

Drafting Bill

Malkus told the Senate his bill, being drafted for introduction Wednesday, will drop the reserve fund requirement to 2 per cent of last year's payrolls instead of 3 per cent and thus eliminate the need for the tax increase.

He said federal and state experts would be called to confirm the move would not be dangerous. If they say it is dangerous, "the bill will not move," Malkus told the Senate.

The Dorchester County Democrat, who spearheaded a bill passed by the Senate last week to tighten eligibility requirement for benefits, told the Senate that if the bill it had just passed had been in effect the past year the current crisis would not have arisen.

Abuses Cited

"We have lost $11.5 million by paying benefits to those who have refused to accept suitable employment or quit their jobs," he said.

The Senate bill, which would raise the maximum weekly benefits from $35 to $38 but curb abuses, was fought by labor. It is currently in the House of Delegates where chances for passage are believed enhanced by the current emergency in the benefit fund.

Labor seeks to substitute a liberalization of benefits, which would extend the maximum period for drawing benefits by 13 weeks, raise the maximum weekly amount to $45 and require employers to pay taxes on the first $4,500 of a worker's income instead of the first $3,000.

Employer Tax Hike Opposed By Sen. Malkus

Automatic Increase Effective April 1

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Frederick C. Malkus said Tuesday he will introduce emergency legislation to head off an increase in employer taxes scheduled to take effect April 1 because of a drain on jobless benefits.

Malkus, chairman of the Senate's powerful Judicial Proceedings Committee which has been investigating jobless pay problems, made the announcement on the Senate floor.

It came on the heels of a statement by Robert B. Kimble, director of Maryland's Department of Employment Security, that the benefit fund will dip to a new low of $48 million by March 31 because of continued unemployment.

Rise Automatic

Under an automatic escalator clause in the law, the tax on employers will rise to a new minimum of 3.9 per cent on the first $3,000 of wages paid. Many employers now are paying 1.7 to 1.9 per cent if they have a low turnover of personnel.

Malkus said the tax increase would work an extreme hardship on small businessmen. A garage operator employing five persons and paying $255 in taxes under the present 1.7 per cent rate would have to pay $585 under the mandatory increase.

Kimble said the tax increase would not be necessary were it not for the requirement that it take effect automatically when Maryland's fund dips below 3 per cent of the amount employers paid in wages last year.

He said $20 to $25 million in employer taxes from the first quarter of this year will reach the department in April and eliminate the current emergency in the fund.

Drafting Bill

Malkus told the Senate his bill, being drafted for introduction Wednesday, will drop the reserve fund requirement to 2 per cent of last year's payrolls instead of 3 per cent and thus eliminate the need for the tax increase.

He said federal and state experts would be called to confirm the move would not be dangerous. If they say it is dangerous, "the bill will not move," Malkus told the Senate.

The Dorchester County Democrat, who spearheaded a bill passed by the Senate last week to tighten eligibility requirement for benefits, told the Senate that if the bill it had just passed had been in effect the past year the current crisis would not have arisen.

Abuses Cited

"We have lost $11.5 million by paying benefits to those who have refused to accept suitable employment or quit their jobs," he said.

The Senate bill, which would raise the maximum weekly benefits from $35 to $38 but curb abuses, was fought by labor. It is currently in the House of Delegates where chances for passage are believed enhanced by the current emergency in the benefit fund.

Labor seeks to substitute a liberalization of benefits, which would extend the maximum period for drawing benefits by 13 weeks, raise the maximum weekly amount to $45 and require employers to pay taxes on the first $4,500 of a worker's income instead of the first $3,000.

Utility Proposes Stony River Dam

Vepco Plans $150 Million Plant

The Virginia Electric and Power Company of Richmond yesterday asked the West Virginia Public Service Commission for authority to build and operate a $150 million steam electric generating station in nearby Grant County, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Charleston, W. Va.

The Virginia utility outlined plans for the one million kilowatt generating station using 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons of coal annually on Stony River in Grant County.

A PSC hearing will be held on the application on March 9.

$24 Million Payroll

Vepco said the plant is expected to cost more than $150 million with a construction payroll of about $24 million and a continuing annual operation payroll of about $60,000.

The application also noted plans for a 1,200-acre lake which would provide new recreational benefits in the area and prove a tourist attraction.

This lake will be formed behind a dam to be about 1,500 feet long and 143 feet high. It would be upstream from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's present dam.

Last July, Vepco purchased some 345 acres of land in Mineral County, W. Va., just outside of Keyser amid speculation that there might be some power development in that county. Apparently, the utility now has decided on Grant County in preference to Mineral County.

This 345-acre tract between the Waxler Road and the Potomac River was bought from John Umstot for an estimated $45,000.

Record Budget

Just last weekend, directors of Virginia Electric and Power Company announced approval of a record 1961 construction budget of $85 million and increased quarterly dividends to 32½ cents per share from 30 cents paid previously.

President A. H. McDowell Jr. said last Saturday that the 1961 budget is $28,064,000 larger than the $56,936,000 spent in 1960. The increase was ordered to keep pace with growth of the company's service area.

Stony River is one of the tributaries of the Potomac River which the U. S. Corps of Engineers believes could be utilized for one of about 12 or more dams which eventually will be needed in the river basin for water supply and pollution abatement.

Legislators Agree To Back Amended Plan

Reach Decision On College Proposal

Allegany County legislators have agreed to support a bill to make Frostburg State Teachers College a center of the University of Maryland if certain changes are made in the bill which would put the merger into effect.

The decision was announced in a statement issued from Annapolis last night by Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the delegation which includes all seven Allegany County legislators.

The formal statement follows:

Suggest Changes

"The Allegany County representatives in the General Assembly have met again today and this evening regarding the inclusion of Frostburg State Teachers College as a part of the University of Maryland.

"The delegation has suggested certain changes which it feels should be made in the original draft of the proposed legislation which was submitted to it last week.

"We are of the opinion that these changes should be included in the final draft of the bill prior to its introduction, and the Delegation has unanimously agreed to support the bill if these changes are adopted."

The above statement was prepared following a formal meeting of the legislators last night. A number of informal conferences were held earlier in the day.

Declines Comment

Del. Driscoll declined to elaborate on the changes sought by the county legislators.

He said legislators did not wish to go beyond the written statement at this time."

The legislators held a two-hour meeting in Annapolis Monday night which broke up with the seven members reported "near complete agreement" on the legislative program.

Area Woman Being Held For Murder

Mrs. Mary Kline Jailed Without Bail At Romney

Mrs. Mary Kline, 55-year-old Slanesville, W. Va., area housekeeper, arraigned yesterday afternoon on a charge of first degree murder in the death of her employer, is being held without bail in the Hampshire County jail in Romney.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, before whom Mrs. Kline was arraigned, said a preliminary hearing will be held in his office in Romney at 10 a. m. Tuesday, February 28.

Mrs. Kline was arrested Sunday by West Virginia State Police in connection with the beating of Mrs. Lutie Cindy Kidwell, 87, who was found in a pool of blood Sunday morning by her son, Lester Kidwell.

Mrs. Kidwell, who was almost blind, died yesterday in Hampshire County Memorial Hospital, Romney, where she was admitted Sunday with severe cuts about her head, allegedly sustained when beaten with a blunt instrument.

Was Housekeeper

Mr. Russell yesterday issued the murder warrant against the accused woman, who had been employed as a housekeeper at the Kidwell home for about a month. Originally she lived in the Lost River sector of Hardy County.

Authorities said Mrs. Kline is being given time to get counsel prior to the hearing.

An autopsy was performed yesterday by a Martinsburg, W. Va. pathologist, according to authorities, who said the victim died as a result of blows of a blunt instrument.

They said she had been struck about eight or ten times on the head and across the shoulders with the blunt instrument. The pathologist's report has not been completed, the authorities said.

Mrs. Kline at first informed authorities that some men had broken into the home Saturday night and beat Mrs. Kidwell.

Russell, who is also coroner for Hampshire County, said Mrs. Kidwell sustained several bad lacerations on the back of her head.

He said he has been advised that Mrs. Kline left the home around 6:30 p. m. Saturday and returned with an armload of firewood. She allegedly called Mrs. Kidwell into the kitchen and struck her on the back of her head, authorities said.

Found 15 Hours Later

Mrs. Kidwell was found in a pool of blood around 9:30 a. m. Sunday, approximately 15 hours later, when her son came to the home.

The partially blind woman was taken to the Romney hospital by her son. She died yesterday.

The victim was a daughter of the late Peter and Jane (Edwards) Largent. Her husband died in 1929.

She was the oldest member of the Mt. Union Christian Church at Slanesville.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Earl Omps and Mrs. W. Y. Moreland, both of Winchester, Va., and two sons, Edward Kidwell, Washington, Pa., and Lester Kidwell, of Augusta, W. Va.

The body is at the McKee Funeral Home in Augusta.

Services will be conducted at the Slanesville Church on Thursday at 11 a. m. The body will be taken to the church at 10 a. m.

Rev. Donald Wright and Rev. J. O. Patterson, Martinsburg, will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

State Auto Tag Applications Are Mailed

The State Department of Motor Vehicles yesterday mailed more than one million applications for new license plates to Maryland passenger car owners.

The 1961 tags will go on sale locally tomorrow at the Court House office of Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff who warned motorists that the procedure to get tags this year will be a little more complicated than in previous years.

Effective with the issuance of these new tags, in order that the Department of Motor Vehicles may be satisfied that an applicant is insured, all insurance companies or agents will mail to their assured, a certificate of insurance on form "UCJ-1."

This certificate will describe by make and serial number as well as the name of the assured. Initials will be accepted but the serial number must agree with the serial number shown on the application. These certificates must be signed by the company or its agent.

On the reverse side of the certificate, spaces are provided for the owner of the vehicle, to certify that the insurance is in effect at the time the application is submitted. When this requirement is complied with no additional fee is required. This applies to any vehicle registered during the registration year.

If the applicant fails to file Form UCJ-1, a $26 fee must be paid in addition to the regular fee for license tags of either $15 or $23.

Mr. Orndorff reported that his office has sold nearly 24,000 automotive and privately-owned truck tags since last February about this time. This sale continues throughout the year although the bulk occurs during March.

The tax collector now has nearly 21,000 sets of new automobile tags. Included in the 20,966 sets are all of both the DA and DB series and the first 1,681 in the DC series. There also are 1,483 in the BB series from 85-01 to 99-98 which are being sold to Masons at the Ali Ghan Shrine City Club.

Although the sale will start tomorrow, the new tags cannot be displayed until next Wednesday, March 1. The old tags cannot be used after midnight Friday, March 31, on automobiles. The truck deadline is one month later.

Mr. Orndorff's office is open from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Garrett Co. Liquor Bill Proposed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Sale of liquor is being sought in Garrett County, Maryland's only subdivision where distilled spirits cannot legally be sold.

Del. Elbert Buckel, R-Garrett, proposed a bill to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages in hotels, restaurants and clubs.

All beverages would be dispensed through county stores at Grantsville and Oakland. They could be consumed only on the premises of the licensed establishments and not on Sunday.

The county commissioners would double as a liquor control board.

The hotel and restaurant licenses in Buckel's bill would cost $300 a year. Alcoholic beverages could be served only in connection with meals and not over a bar.

Clubs eligible for licenses would be those for military veterans, national fraternal lodges, boat owners, and golfers or swimmers.

They would cost $500.

Buckel specifically excluded sales at dances.

After providing for operation expenses, the liquor board would be authorized to maintain a reserve fund of $50,000. Remaining profits would go into the county treasury.

Three Nabbed In Wiley Ford Home Entry

Three South End youths yesterday afternoon were picked up by city police and questioned by a West Virginia state trooper in connection with the entry of a home in Wiley Ford.

Local gas company employes have been recognized for their help in maintaining a 23-month accident-free work record.

Columbia Gas of Maryland, Inc., has presented members of the organization travel alarm clocks for their contribution in helping the company work force complete 1,000,000 man-hours without a disabling injury. The last lost-time accident occurred on January 29, 1959.

About 250 employes of Columbia Gas and the Gettysburg service area of Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. compiled the million man-hours between January 29, 1959 and December 16, 1960.

Company safety director A. R. Kelliher and J. S. Wilson, assistant district manager for Columbia Gas and Manufacturers' Gettysburg area, presented the awards to employes here.

54 Employes Share In Sears Profit Fund

Employes of the local Sears, Roebuck store were told last night that they now have a total of $427,355 credited to their accounts with the company's profit sharing plan. The news was given them by Samuel Moses, store manager during a meeting held at the store.

Fund members were given statements showing how they shared in Sears profits last year, and the value of each member's account which is set aside for eventual retirement. the 54 local members include employes of the retail store and of Allstate Insurance Companies, a wholly-owned subsidiary operation of Sears.

Mr. Moses said the holdings of local fund members included 5,858 shares of Sears stock and other securities amounting to $99,308 as of December 31.

More than 148,000 men and women across the nation are members of the Savings and Profit Sharing Pension Fund of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Employes, he said. This is an increase of more than 4,000 members since a year ago. The 148,000 members include more than 12,000 emyloyes of Allstate Insurance Companies.

The employes' profit-sharing fund, which is Sears largest single shareowner, held more than 26 per cent of the company's outstanding stock at the end of 1960. In addition to the large investment in Sears stock, the fund's assets also are invested in the stock of more than 100 diversified companies and in other securities.

Total assets of the fund as of December 31 exceeded $1.4 billion. Of this amount, some $170 million was contributed by employes from their wages and salaries. The remainder came from company contributions, investment income and appreciation in value of the fund's investments.

"Sears profit sharing fund," Mr. Moses said, "is the foundation upon which thousands of Sears and Allstate families build their financial security for retirement." It was established in 1916 with 6,000 members, and now has 148,000.

All regular employes of the company who have completed one year of service are eligible to join the fund. Members contribute five per cent of their wages and salaries, up to a maximum of $500 each year. The company contributes a portion of its net income. The company's contribution is credited to members' accounts on a formula based on their age, length of service and deposits.

Dead is Mrs. Hazel Cage of 124 South Mechanic Street. An autopsy was performed last night at Memorial Hospital, and the deputy county medical examiner's office said she died from asphyxiation due to carbon monoxide.

Her husband, John Cage, 64, who was found wandering in a daze in the vicinity of the parked car yesterday afternoon, was admitted to the hospital and given oxygen. His condition last night was termed "satisfactory," attaches said.

Five Indicted In Death Of Va. Salesman

Jurors Hear Testimony In Hardy County

A Hardy County, W. Va. grand jury yesterday indicted five Moorefield area men in connection with the July 14 death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33-year-old salesman from Stephens City, Va.

They include Wilson C. Zirk, of Old Fields, who was indicted last year and tried for the murder of the salesman, but the petit jury was unable to come to a decision.

Also indicted were John Rexroad, Junior B. Miley, Nolan Shreve and Page Weese of Moorefield.

Authorities said the five men were indicted for "conspiring, aiding, abetting and assisting in the commission and consummation of' the murder of Ritter and in suppression of evidence in the case.

Bonds Are Posted

All but Shreve have posted $5,000 bond, according to authorities, who said the men are expected to be arraigned Saturday morning in Hardy County Circuit Court to enter pleas to the indictments. The date for the trial is expected to be set on Saturday, they added.

On the day of the man's death a coroner's jury ruled the salesman died of loss of blood from cuts on his right arm inflicted by an unknown person or persons.

The jury ruled that Ritter's right arm had been pushed back and forth in a sawing motion over the broken glass of the left front window of his car, which was found parked some distance from Rexroad's Welding Shop in Moorefield.

Authorities said the five men who were indicted yesterday had been in company of each other in a "drunken party" prior to the victim's death.

Other Indictments

Four other indictments were returned by the jurors yesterday.

Garland L. Vance of Lost City was indicted on a charge of breaking and entering the store and restaurant of Nora Garrett in that community and taking five cartons of cigarets, a quart of beer and $7.

An indictment of grand larceny was returned against Carroll David Rinard, of Wardensville, who is charged with taking 27 turkeys which belonged to C. J. Cunningham of Wardensville.

A forgery indictment was returned against Roy Smith of Clinton, Md., who forged the name of Riley Smith on a check and passed it at the South Branch Valley Bank in Moorefield. The check was in the amount of $35, authorities said.

Dick M. See of Moorefield was indicted for a motor vehicle violation.

'Litterbug' Case Will Be Tried

A long-standing "litterbug" case will be tried at 8 p. m. Thursday by Trial Magistrate Russell V. Nierman of Flintstone.

Wilson Blaine Kidwell, 21, of Apartment 1E, Fort Cumberland Homes, was placed in the County Jail early yesterday by city police. He had been charged with placing an "injurious substance" on U. S. Route 40 last October 28 but failed to appear November 15 for his hearing before Magistrate Nierman.

State Trooper John W. McFarland said last night that he arrested Kidwell last October 28 after the young man had placed two six-packs of throw-away beer bottles on the shoulder of U. S. Route 40 at the top of Green Ridge Mountain.

The trooper, who had stopped at the spot for some gasoline, said that he trailed an automobile down the mountain after he heard the sound as some of the beer bottles were broken.

When he stopped the car, the trooper explained, Kidwell acknowledged that he had placed some of the bottles in front of a rear wheel while the vehicle was stopped on the mountain. He was a passenger in the car.

Trooper McFarland said that he got a broom and dust pan and required Kidwell to clean up the broken glass before placing him under arrest.

Kidwell was released pending the hearing and when he failed to appear November 15 a warrant was issued for his arrest.

SRC Expedites Area Road Repairs

All of the resources of the Maryland State Roads Commission are being used to restore winter-damaged highways in this area to top condition.

And John D. Bushby, District 5 engineer, reported yesterday that area road contractors have agreed to provide equipment and men, as needed, to speed the big repair job.

Mr. Bushby said similar plans have been set in motion by John B. Funk, SRC chairman-director, in all parts of Maryland.

The SRC has earmarked $1,000,000 of emergency funds for the road rehabilitation program.

Chuck holes and frost boils, Mr. Bushby said, are appearing on all highways in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

New Holds Up

Most of the damage, he said, is being found in the older sections of the highways. New sections of roads, built to modern specifications to carry present-day loads, were not affected by the winter weather which is bypassing this area for the present.

Chuck holes are being repaired with a cold patch mixture which he termed an excellent temporary measure.

He said the SRC realizes it will lose some of the cold patch but that most of it remains if it is handled properly, and that the SRC "has an obligation to the motorist" to keep the highways in as good condition as it can at all times.

Repairs to chuck holes, he said, begin with a cleaning of the hole. Then a carefully prepared cold patch mixture which contains a compound which causes the mix to adhere to road materials even when wet, is put in the hole and tamped. Dust is sprinkled on the tamped patch to seal the surface.

Fix Frost Boils

District 6 crews are making repairs to a number of frost boils along Route 40 on Fairview Mountain in Washington County.

Mr. Bushby said the sizeable sections of damaged roads are getting a permanent patch. This includes replacement of the base and the application of a hot mix of bituminous concrete.

He said that if frost boils develop in Allegany and Garrett counties, as usually happens during the winter on roads which have a light veneer of surfacing, immediate repairs will be made.

Area contractors he said, have agreed to give the SRC all the help it needs during the emergency, and that even if the situation gets "real bad" motorists will not suffer.

Highway contractors have agreed to rent equipment, and to furnish men to operate it when necessary, to get the job done.

Utility Proposes Stony River Dam

Vepco Plans $150 Million Plant

The Virginia Electric and Power Company of Richmond yesterday asked the West Virginia Public Service Commission for authority to build and operate a $150 million steam electric generating station in nearby Grant County, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Charleston, W. Va.

The Virginia utility outlined plans for the one million kilowatt generating station using 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons of coal annually on Stony River in Grant County.

A PSC hearing will be held on the application on March 9.

$24 Million Payroll

Vepco said the plant is expected to cost more than $150 million with a construction payroll of about $24 million and a continuing annual operation payroll of about $60,000.

The application also noted plans for a 1,200-acre lake which would provide new recreational benefits in the area and prove a tourist attraction.

This lake will be formed behind a dam to be about 1,500 feet long and 143 feet high. It would be upstream from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's present dam.

Last July, Vepco purchased some 345 acres of land in Mineral County, W. Va., just outside of Keyser amid speculation that there might be some power development in that county. Apparently, the utility now has decided on Grant County in preference to Mineral County.

This 345-acre tract between the Waxler Road and the Potomac River was bought from John Umstot for an estimated $45,000.

Record Budget

Just last weekend, directors of Virginia Electric and Power Company announced approval of a record 1961 construction budget of $85 million and increased quarterly dividends to 32½ cents per share from 30 cents paid previously.

President A. H. McDowell Jr. said last Saturday that the 1961 budget is $28,064,000 larger than the $56,936,000 spent in 1960. The increase was ordered to keep pace with growth of the company's service area.

Stony River is one of the tributaries of the Potomac River which the U. S. Corps of Engineers believes could be utilized for one of about 12 or more dams which eventually will be needed in the river basin for water supply and pollution abatement.

Legislators Agree To Back Amended Plan

Reach Decision On College Proposal

Allegany County legislators have agreed to support a bill to make Frostburg State Teachers College a center of the University of Maryland if certain changes are made in the bill which would put the merger into effect.

The decision was announced in a statement issued from Annapolis last night by Delegate Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the delegation which includes all seven Allegany County legislators.

The formal statement follows:

Suggest Changes

"The Allegany County representatives in the General Assembly have met again today and this evening regarding the inclusion of Frostburg State Teachers College as a part of the University of Maryland.

"The delegation has suggested certain changes which it feels should be made in the original draft of the proposed legislation which was submitted to it last week.

"We are of the opinion that these changes should be included in the final draft of the bill prior to its introduction, and the Delegation has unanimously agreed to support the bill if these changes are adopted."

The above statement was prepared following a formal meeting of the legislators last night. A number of informal conferences were held earlier in the day.

Declines Comment

Del. Driscoll declined to elaborate on the changes sought by the county legislators.

He said legislators did not wish to go beyond the written statement at this time."

The legislators held a two-hour meeting in Annapolis Monday night which broke up with the seven members reported "near complete agreement" on the legislative program.

Area Woman Being Held For Murder

Mrs. Mary Kline Jailed Without Bail At Romney

Mrs. Mary Kline, 55-year-old Slanesville, W. Va., area housekeeper, arraigned yesterday afternoon on a charge of first degree murder in the death of her employer, is being held without bail in the Hampshire County jail in Romney.

Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell, before whom Mrs. Kline was arraigned, said a preliminary hearing will be held in his office in Romney at 10 a. m. Tuesday, February 28.

Mrs. Kline was arrested Sunday by West Virginia State Police in connection with the beating of Mrs. Lutie Cindy Kidwell, 87, who was found in a pool of blood Sunday morning by her son, Lester Kidwell.

Mrs. Kidwell, who was almost blind, died yesterday in Hampshire County Memorial Hospital, Romney, where she was admitted Sunday with severe cuts about her head, allegedly sustained when beaten with a blunt instrument.

Was Housekeeper

Mr. Russell yesterday issued the murder warrant against the accused woman, who had been employed as a housekeeper at the Kidwell home for about a month. Originally she lived in the Lost River sector of Hardy County.

Authorities said Mrs. Kline is being given time to get counsel prior to the hearing.

An autopsy was performed yesterday by a Martinsburg, W. Va. pathologist, according to authorities, who said the victim died as a result of blows of a blunt instrument.

They said she had been struck about eight or ten times on the head and across the shoulders with the blunt instrument. The pathologist's report has not been completed, the authorities said.

Mrs. Kline at first informed authorities that some men had broken into the home Saturday night and beat Mrs. Kidwell.

Russell, who is also coroner for Hampshire County, said Mrs. Kidwell sustained several bad lacerations on the back of her head.

He said he has been advised that Mrs. Kline left the home around 6:30 p. m. Saturday and returned with an armload of firewood. She allegedly called Mrs. Kidwell into the kitchen and struck her on the back of her head, authorities said.

Found 15 Hours Later

Mrs. Kidwell was found in a pool of blood around 9:30 a. m. Sunday, approximately 15 hours later, when her son came to the home.

The partially blind woman was taken to the Romney hospital by her son. She died yesterday.

The victim was a daughter of the late Peter and Jane (Edwards) Largent. Her husband died in 1929.

She was the oldest member of the Mt. Union Christian Church at Slanesville.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Earl Omps and Mrs. W. Y. Moreland, both of Winchester, Va., and two sons, Edward Kidwell, Washington, Pa., and Lester Kidwell, of Augusta, W. Va.

The body is at the McKee Funeral Home in Augusta.

Services will be conducted at the Slanesville Church on Thursday at 11 a. m. The body will be taken to the church at 10 a. m.

Rev. Donald Wright and Rev. J. O. Patterson, Martinsburg, will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

State Auto Tag Applications Are Mailed

The State Department of Motor Vehicles yesterday mailed more than one million applications for new license plates to Maryland passenger car owners.

The 1961 tags will go on sale locally tomorrow at the Court House office of Allegany County Tax Collector William B. Orndorff who warned motorists that the procedure to get tags this year will be a little more complicated than in previous years.

Effective with the issuance of these new tags, in order that the Department of Motor Vehicles may be satisfied that an applicant is insured, all insurance companies or agents will mail to their assured, a certificate of insurance on form "UCJ-1."

This certificate will describe by make and serial number as well as the name of the assured. Initials will be accepted but the serial number must agree with the serial number shown on the application. These certificates must be signed by the company or its agent.

On the reverse side of the certificate, spaces are provided for the owner of the vehicle, to certify that the insurance is in effect at the time the application is submitted. When this requirement is complied with no additional fee is required. This applies to any vehicle registered during the registration year.

If the applicant fails to file Form UCJ-1, a $26 fee must be paid in addition to the regular fee for license tags of either $15 or $23.

Mr. Orndorff reported that his office has sold nearly 24,000 automotive and privately-owned truck tags since last February about this time. This sale continues throughout the year although the bulk occurs during March.

The tax collector now has nearly 21,000 sets of new automobile tags. Included in the 20,966 sets are all of both the DA and DB series and the first 1,681 in the DC series. There also are 1,483 in the BB series from 85-01 to 99-98 which are being sold to Masons at the Ali Ghan Shrine City Club.

Although the sale will start tomorrow, the new tags cannot be displayed until next Wednesday, March 1. The old tags cannot be used after midnight Friday, March 31, on automobiles. The truck deadline is one month later.

Mr. Orndorff's office is open from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Garrett Co. Liquor Bill Proposed

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Sale of liquor is being sought in Garrett County, Maryland's only subdivision where distilled spirits cannot legally be sold.

Del. Elbert Buckel, R-Garrett, proposed a bill to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages in hotels, restaurants and clubs.

All beverages would be dispensed through county stores at Grantsville and Oakland. They could be consumed only on the premises of the licensed establishments and not on Sunday.

The county commissioners would double as a liquor control board.

The hotel and restaurant licenses in Buckel's bill would cost $300 a year. Alcoholic beverages could be served only in connection with meals and not over a bar.

Clubs eligible for licenses would be those for military veterans, national fraternal lodges, boat owners, and golfers or swimmers.

They would cost $500.

Buckel specifically excluded sales at dances.

After providing for operation expenses, the liquor board would be authorized to maintain a reserve fund of $50,000. Remaining profits would go into the county treasury.

Three Nabbed In Wiley Ford Home Entry

Three South End youths yesterday afternoon were picked up by city police and questioned by a West Virginia state trooper in connection with the entry of a home in Wiley Ford.

54 Employes Share In Sears Profit Fund

Employes of the local Sears, Roebuck store were told last night that they now have a total of $427,355 credited to their accounts in the employes' profit sharing plan. The news was given them by Samuel Moses, store manager during a meeting held at the store.

Fund members were given statements showing how they shared in Sears profits last year, and the value of each member's account which is set aside for eventual retirement. the 54 local members include employes of the retail store and of Allstate Insurance Companies, a wholly-owned subsidiary operation of Sears.

Mr. Moses said the holdings of local fund members included 5,858 shares of Sears stock and other securities amounting to $99,308 as of December 31.

More than 148,000 men and women across the nation are members of the Savings and Profit Sharing Pension Fund of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Employes, he said. This is an increase of more than 4,000 members since a year ago. The 148,000 members include more than 12,000 emyloyes of Allstate Insurance Companies.

The employes' profit-sharing fund, which is Sears largest single shareowner, held more than 26 per cent of the company's outstanding stock at the end of 1960. In addition to the large investment in Sears stock, the fund's assets also are invested in the stock of more than 100 diversified companies and in other securities.

Total assets of the fund as of December 31 exceeded $1.4 billion. Of this amount, some $170 million was contributed by employes from their wages and salaries. The remainder came from company contributions, investment income and appreciation in value of the fund's investments.

"Sears profit sharing fund," Mr. Moses said, "is the foundation upon which thousands of Sears and Allstate families build their financial security for retirement." It was established in 1916 with 6,000 members, and now has 148,000.

All regular employes of the company who have completed one year of service are eligible to join the fund. Members contribute five per cent of their wages and salaries, up to a maximum of $500 each year. The company contributes a portion of its net income. The company's contribution is credited to members' accounts on a formula based on their age, length of service and deposits.

Five Indicted In Death Of Va. Salesman

Jurors Hear Testimony In Hardy County

A Hardy County, W. Va. grand jury yesterday indicted five Moorefield area men in connection with the July 14 death of Eldridge Lee Ritter, 33-year-old salesman from Stephens City, Va.

They include Wilson C. Zirk, of Old Fields, who was indicted last year and tried for the murder of the salesman, but the petit jury was unable to come to a decision.

Also indicted were John Rexroad, Junior B. Miley, Nolan Shreve and Page Weese of Moorefield.

Authorities said the five men were indicted for "conspiring, aiding, abetting and assisting in the commission and consummation of the murder of Ritter and in suppression of evidence in the case.

Bonds Are Posted

All but Shreve have posted $5,000 bond, according to authorities, who said the men are expected to be arraigned Saturday morning in Hardy County Circuit Court to enter pleas to the indictments. The date for the trial is expected to be set on Saturday, they added.

On the day of the man's death a coroner's jury ruled the salesman died of loss of blood from cuts on his right arm inflicted by an unknown person or persons.

The jury ruled that Ritter's right arm had been pushed back and forth in a sawing motion over the broken glass of the left front window of his car, which was found parked some distance from Rexroad's Welding Shop in Moorefield.

Authorities said the five men who were indicted yesterday had been in company of each other in a "drunken party" prior to the victim's death.

Four other indictments were returned by the jurors yesterday.

Garland L. Vance of Lost City was indicted on a charge of breaking and entering the store and restaurant of Nora Garrett in that community and taking five cartons of cigarets, a quart of beer and $7.

A forgery indictment was returned against Roy Smith of Clinton, Md., who forged the name of Riley Smith on a check and passed it at the South Branch Valley Bank in Moorefield. The check was in the amount of $35, authorities said.

Dick M. See of Moorefield was indicted for a motor vehicle violation.

'Litterbug' Case Will Be Tried

A long-standing "litterbug" case will be tried at 8 p. m. Thursday by Trial Magistrate Russell V. Nierman of Flintstone.

Wilson Blaine Kidwell, 21, of Apartment 1E, Fort Cumberland Homes, was placed in the County Jail early yesterday by city police. He had been charged with placing an "injurious substance" on U. S. Route 40 last October 28 but failed to appear November 15 for his hearing before Magistrate Nierman.

State Trooper John W. McFarland said last night that he arrested Kidwell last October 28 after the young man had placed two six-packs of throw-away beer bottles on the shoulder of U. S. Route 40 at the top of Green Ridge Mountain.

The trooper, who had stopped at the spot for some gasoline, said that he trailed an automobile down the mountain after he heard the sound as some of the beer bottles were broken.

When he stopped the car, the trooper explained, Kidwell acknowledged that he had placed some of the bottles in front of a rear wheel while the vehicle was stopped on the mountain. He was a passenger in the car.

Trooper McFarland said that he got a broom and dust pan and required Kidwell to clean up the broken glass before placing him under arrest.

Kidwell was released pending the hearing and when he failed to appear November 15 a warrant was issued for his arrest.

SRC Expedites Area Road Repairs

All of the resources of the Maryland State Roads Commission are being used to restore winter-damaged highways in this area to top condition.

And John D. Bushby, District 5 engineer, reported yesterday that area road contractors have agreed to provide equipment and men, as needed, to speed the big repair job.

Mr. Bushby said similar plans have been set in motion by John B. Funk, SRC chairman-director, in all parts of Maryland.

The SRC has earmarked $1,000,000 of emergency funds for the road rehabilitation program.
